SERBIA IS DESERTED BY THE ALLIES

By International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Strong bands of Bulgarian comitadjis, or irregulars, have penetrated Greek territory, it was officially stated today at the Macedonia headquarters of the French General Staff in Salonica.

The irregulars invaded Greece for the purpose of cutting the railway line.

The Anglo-French army in Bulgaria has retreated to Greek soil before the advance of the Teutonic allies, according to dispatches from Berlin.

During the fighting on the Strumnitza front in southern Serbia, the Bulgarians captured ten British cannon, the German War Office announces.

The Berlin report follows:

"During the last two days the troops of General von Koevess have taken 1,200 prisoners.

"Bulgarian troops have taken ten English cannon south of Strumnitsa."

An Athns dispatch says that, owing to the critical military situation, representatives of the entente powers have urged the Greek government to clear up the present uncertainty. They declared it was essential for the allies that their troops should enjoy full freedom of movement.

The general war council of the allies held another session at Paris, today, with Earl Kitchener and Sir Edward Grey attending. No statement as to the aims of the council has yet been issued, but the International News Service was informed by a high authority today that a complete agreement exists regarding the measures to be taken in the Balkans.

Retirement of the allied troops on Salonica is part of the official plan. English troops are still pouring into the Greek port, late cables say.

Furious fighting between Anglo-French troops and Bulgarians is now in progress upon the very frontier of Greece.

An Athens dispatch says many shells fell on Greek soil during a severe artillery duel between Bulgarian and Anglo-French forces southeast of Valanitova. The dispatch adds:

"The point at which the big gun battle was fought was near Lake Doiran, which forms part of the Greek-Serbian boundary. The Bulgars are reported to have been driven from their positions."

The flanking movement of the Bulgarians upon the Tcherna River front has compelled the French to retire eastward as well as southward. The strategy of this move was to keep near the Salonica railway.

The battle front in Southern Serbia is now thirty-five miles long approximately, stretching from a point in the Tcherna valley to a point near Valandova.

Here's the New Football Head for Harvard

Joseph A. Gilman of Honolulu

Joseph Atherton Gilman, Harvards All-American tackle, was this afternoon unanimously chosen captain of next year's varsity team. The election was held in conjunction with the taking of the photograph of Captain Mahan's wonder72ul sieven. Though it is believed there were other candidates for the position, the team manager said Gilman's selection was unanimous.

Gilman is a native of Honolulu and prepared for Harvard at Phillips Exeter. He entered the university with the class of 1916 and in his freshman year made the football, track, crew and swimming teams. In 1914 he first made the varsity team and was one of Harvard's strong tackles.

Then, because of scholastic difficulties, he was forced to remain inactive for a year, but at the opening of the 1915 team he appeared at Cambridge once more and was enrolled in the class of 1917. From the outset of the 1915 football season there was no question as to his making the varsity team.

GIRL POSED AS MAN

CANFIELD'S DAUGHTER ISSUED

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10—Mrs. Grace Canfield Hannon, arrested and released on $25,000 bonds, after being sued for that amount in an alienations of affections case brought by Mrs. Ivy L. Johnson, today telegraphed to New York, asking L. V. Lockwood, executor of her father's estate ,to come to Providence and straighten out the matter.

Mrs. Hannon's father was Richard Canfield, the famous old-time sporting man, and Mr. Lockwood was for years his attorney.

Mrs. Hannon figured in the newspapers at the time of her elopement with "Mart" Hannon, Dartmouth, 1910; and later, when they separated, her name was before the public again.

Mrs. Johnson, suing Mrs. Hannon, charges that she alienated the affections of her husband, Benton L. Johnson, leader of the Crown Hotel orchestra.

Mrs. Johnson, a former artist's model, said today she had been married eight years. And she continued:

"Mrs. Hannon used to wait at the rear of the Crown Hotel for my husband to come out after his work in the dining room with the orchestra.

"When he came out, they would get into a taxi and drive away.

"He used to go two and three times a day to her apartment. She lived in the apartment below that of her mother, on Benefit street."

The Johnson-Hannon case is expected to come before the January term of the Superior Court.

Mrs. Hannon's release from custody on bonds followed a stormy scene between the young woman and her mother in the latter's home, No. 160 Benefit street. For more than three hours Mrs. Canfield, the mother, refused to furnish the bail which would free her daughter from custody.

FIND 'MAN' WOMAN IN DISGUISE

A patient brought to the City Hospital today, unconscious from gas poisoning, who was entered as "Arthur Peyton, No. 30 Williams street, Roxbury," was found by the hospital people to be a woma ndisguised in men's clothing.

Investigation resulted in the police statement later that this woman has been living and working in Boston for two years or more, masquerading as a man and known to her associates as Arthur Peyton.

She worked up to three weeks ago for the Terminal Printing Company at No. 39 Roxbury street as a printer and bookkeeper.

Before that she worked in Watertown at painting and odd jobs.

She was, the police say, a member of Senator "Jim" Timilty's Ward 18 Democratic Club.

TOBACCO IN ROOM.

Pipes, tobacco, cigar butts, "plug cut" and a half-pint bottle, half-filled with whiskey, were found in her room on Williams street.

A picture of a former Boston fireman was found in her room, also letters signed with the name of this former member of the department.

Letters signed "Mother" and postmarked at Providence, R. I., were found, also several post-cards addressed to Mrs. Terence Martin, No. 193 Dexter avenue, Providence, addressing the person written to as "Mother" and signed "Arthur." The police think the woman was some Miss Martin of Providence.

The woman was restored to consciousness at the hospital and improved so rapidly that the doctors believed she would be in condition to leave in two or three days.

The police reported the gas poisoning as accidental.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION

The Roxbury Crossing police received a telephone message at 7 a. m. that a man was overcome by gas at Martin Connelly's, No. 30 Williams street.

"Arthur" was rushed to the hospital. Back at Roxbury Crossing station Gilman reported the case as that of a man. But hardly had he done so when the hospital telephoned: "The 'man' you brought here is a woman." Then Gilman began an investigation.

POPE ASKS KAISER TO END WAR

ROME, Dec. 10.—(Bulletin.)—Cardinal Felix von Harimann, Archbishop of Cologne, has left Rome, after again seeing Pope Benedict. The cardinal said he was the bearer of a Papal message for Emperor William and also recommendations for peace. It is understood that cardinal von Harimann probably will see Prince von Bardow, German Ambassador to Italy, in Switzerland.

By International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 10. — Dispatches received here today from Switzerland report peace riots in Berlin and demonstrations against the war in other German cities. Similar reports were recently received from Copenhagen, and at the same time the German government forbade the sending of German newspapers into Holland.

A Zurich message states that the rioters in Berlin were charged by the police before they were dispersed and that windows of stores and cafes were smashed in the conflict, in which soldiers took an active part.

The German correspondent of the Berlin Tageswacht, says a Berne dispatch reports peace demonstrations in Dresden, Leipzig and Berlin, also stating that the German people think only revolution will force the government to consent to peace.

Lillian Begley, Five-Year-Old Murder Victim

CONFESSES GUILT IN 2 DEATH PUZZLES

QUEBEC, P. Q., Dec. 10.—The mystery that surrounded the murder of Lillian Begley, five years old, in Holyoke, Mass., last September, and also the violent death of Hugh Kane, a milkman, at Ludlow, Mass., last August, is solved, if the confession of Henry Menard, twenty-eight, who says he belongs in Holyoke, turns out to be true.

Menard was arrested at Grand Mere, a small town on the Canadian Northern Railway line, some one hundred miles north of Quebec. He made a statement to Chief Bilodeau with Constable J. O. Forget as a witness.

When Menard walked up to Chief Bilodeau, he looked so dangerous that the chief whipped out his revolver, calling to the man to surrender. "You don't need your gun," feebly said Menard. "I give in. I have enough of a fugitive's life. I haven't eaten for three days, get me some grub and I'll tell you everything. I am wanted for two murders in New England."

TELLS OF CRIMES.

Chief Bilodeau then got all the information from Menard. He says he committed the murder on the little five-year-old girl in Holyoke, Mass., on the 19th of September last, then he related that he shot and killed the milkman, on a street at Ludlow.

On the 19th of August at Holyoke, he says, he handed on Maple avenue. After his crimes, he said, he ran from town to town, finally landing in Montreal. Afterward he hid in small villages.

The murder of five-year-old Lillian Begley was one of the most hideous in this State. Lillian was one of two children of Mrs. Bridget H. Begley, a widow. The other child is two-year-old Mary.

On Sunday evening September 12, Mrs. Begley gave Lillian a penny to spend for candy. The child ran joyfully downstairs from the Begley tenement in a block on Maple street and bought her candy at a nearby store. She started back home, but did not return to her mother.

ATTACKED AND KILLED.

A little later in the evening inquiry was made for her, then search, and finally a systematic hunt. At 11 o'clock that night Patrolman William Morgan found Lillian's mutilated body in the cellar of the very block where the family lived.

The child had been attacked and killed, obviously by some degenerate who had lured her into the cellar.

Examination of School Girls by Men Protested

BROCKTON, Dec. 10.—Parents of girls in the Brockton grammar schools, it became known today, have been protesting individually and in groups, because their daughters are being subjected to physical examinations by men physicians.

Dr. W. K. Caswell, one of the school inspectors, said today:

"Our system of examination is the same as in Springfield, where it has been in force for many years.

"The girls are not stripped, except that their waists are opened for the heart beats. Their corsets are not removed, except when the corsets are too high to allow these tests to be made.

"There is nothing immodest in the whole proceeding."

A member of the school board who would not allow his name to be used said:

"In the future a nurse will be present at these examinations and the parents will be invited to come."

ALLIES WILL NOT OFFER PEACE TERMS TO GERMANY, ENTENTE OFFICIALS DECLARE

Each Side, However, Would Discuss Any Proposal Coming From the Other.

peace without the consent of Germany or Austria," says a Geneva dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

In all the capitals of the entente powers the peace talk of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Chancellor, met with stern public rebuffs today.

The professed attitude of the allied governments is summed up in this formula phrase:

"We are determined to fight it out on this line if it takes ten years."

However, while the allies are openly determined to stand together and offer no proposals for peace, they do not underestimate the strength of the German allies, nor do they minimize the victories that Germany and her allies have won up to date, and it is believed that if the right proposal were made at this time it would receive more than a hearing.

In British official circles it is considered that the best answer to the German Chancellor is the fact that ever now the war chiefs of the allied countries are planning fresh campaigns by land and by sea.

MAY FORCE NAVAL BATTLE.

In the discussion of various phases of the war at the High Council in Paris suggestions were made. It was learned today, as to how the German high seas fleet might be forced from its haven in the Kiel Canal.

It was for the discussion of that question, it was said, that Admiral Boussine, chief of the general staff of the Russian navy, was called to Paris.

Opinions outside of government circles are divided over the prospects for peace. The press inclines to the view that the militant ring of the speech in the Reichstag by the German imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, is unmistakable. Nevertheless there are some who believe the speech, which follows closely a similar one made by Premier Asquith before the House of Commons, has a pacific undertone.

Although both plainly brought out the fact that neither Germany nor Great Britian is willing to take the initiative in a peace movement. It is pointed out that the way is clearly blazed for some third party of high standing—possibly the United States, Pope Benidict or some other neutral—to take steps to bring the belligerents into a conference which may end the greatest war of all time.

All the belligerents have suffered so severely that they would be glad to see an end to the calamitous warfare.

The significant Reichstag utterances by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg have aroused high hopes.

"Rumors that Germany is on the verge of a collapse," said the Chancellor, "and the attribution of a peace mission to every prominent German who goes abroad, Prince von Buelow, Prince Maximilian of Baden, Dr. Solf, Secretary for the Colonies, and Cardinal von Hartmann—reports in which there is not a word of truth—are all part of a deliberate campaign to keep up the spirits of the enemy peoples in the face of repeated defeats. There is not a weak point in the German reckoning. If our enemies do not choose to accept the situation and end the war now, they must do so later. Germany can wait."

At the conclusion of the imperial chancellor's first speech Dr. Kaempf, president of the chamber, read the interpellation and put the formal question as to whether the government was prepared to reply.

READY WITH REPLY.

"We are ready to reply immediately," responded Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg.

The Reichstag presented the typical appearance of a momentous day, there being not even standing room in the galleries. The American ambassador, James W. Gerard, was among the diplomats present. The great audience also included the Duke of Mecklenburg, Admiral von Tirpitz, Minister of Marine; Gottlieb von Jagow, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Count Zeppelin, Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Dr. Karl Helfferich, Secretary of the Imperial Treasury and former director of the Deutsche Bank.

Speaking of the guarantees of the position of Germany in the future, to be included in the peace terms, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg insisted that the longer the war was continued, with increasing bitterness, by Germany's enemies, the greater was the need of such guarantees.

"We do not fight in order to subjugate other nations," he said. "We fight for the protection of our life and liberty. For the German government the war has always been what it was at the beginning—a war of defence for the German nation and for her future.

"The war can be terminated only by a peace which will give assurance that war will not return. We all agree about that. There lies, and there always will lie, the root of our strength."

COULD SPEAK NOW.

Dr. Scheidemann's address was received with a degree of interest second only to that aroused by the chancellor's speech. He reminded the House that at the beginning of the war the Socialists had approved the attitude of the German government.

Allies and Teutons Willing to Talk Peace Now; Each Suggests That the Other Make First Offer

Premier Asquith in the House of Commons, Wednesday, December 8:

"If proposals for a general peace are put forward by the enemy, either directly or through a neutral power, they will be discussed by the allied governments."

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg in the German Reichstag, Thursday, December 9:

"If our enemies make peace proposals compatible with Germany's dignity and safety, we shall be ready to discuss them."

CHANCELLOR'S SPEECH UNITES ALL GERMAN PARTIES, SAY LEADERS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the Social-Democratic party today, which was attended by a majority of the members, resolutions were adopted declaring that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's answer to the interpellation of Dr. Scheidemann was satisfactory, as it showed the German government had no desire to annex territory.

Party leaders in the Reichstag today expressed unanimous approval of the German government's attitude toward peace as set forth by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, at Thursday's session. They emphasized the willingness expressed by the Chancellor to discuss any terms that the Allies might offer which would be compatible with Germany's dignity and safety.

They were practically unanimous in declaring that responsibility for the war "must rest upon the allies in the future, as it has in the past." This view is also taken editorially by the leading German newspapers.

LITTLE HOPE OF PEACE NOW.

In no circles in Berlin, however, is there any hope that the entente powers will propose peace terms. The general opinion is that the allies, relying upon their resources, will continue the war in expectation that Germany will be ultimately overthrown.

Prominent political chieftains, even those who had before the war opposed the government, say today that the speech of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg will weld all elements of the German nation into a firm unit for defence of the fatherland.

"The Chancellor's speech was pleasing to all Germany," said Herr Bassermann, a leader of the National Lieberabund. "It could not have been any different.

"It is not possible at present to go into peace details, but the impression must go around the world that Germany is willing to conclude a favorable peace and at all times accept sensible proposals.

"Herr Basserman praised the "disciplined, conservative attitude of the Socialists, which is recognized by all the other parties as showing that German unity is unimpaired."

TO WAIT FOR OVERTURES.

Mr. von Heydebrand, a leader of the Conservative party, declared emphatically that all peace overtures must come from Germany's enemies.

"We are in favor of persevering and fighting on until our enemies make peace overtures to us," he said.

"Thank Heaven Germany is in a position where it does not need to beg for peace. We do not have to stand at attention with hands to our caps. This is most fortunate, as our enemies are still bragging about the partition of Germany. We do not expect any change in the attitude of the central powers, nor in that of our enemies."

Baron von Richthoven, a National Liberal leader, who was formerly attached to the German embassy at Washington, said that the Chancellor's speech should have a marked effect on public opinion in neutral countries.

"The peace discussion will show the world that Germany is peacefully inclined and never wanted a war of conquest," he said. "But whether such discussion will bear any fruit as long as the enemy shows no sign of comprehending our superiority remains to be seen."

PLEA FROM THE TRENCHES LED FORD, HE SAYS

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN.
By Wireless to the American.

ON BOARD THE OSCAR II., Dec. 7 (delayed by SS. Nieuw Amsterdam).—As I asked Henry Ford today for the real motive of his decision to lead the strangest peace mission in history, he replied: "Well, I said, "too much theorizing published. Tell me something practical about this expedition."

Mr. Ford said: "Among the thousands of men working in my shops I have practically all nations represented. My working people are the brethren of the men in trenches, on battleships and airships in Austria and Germany, Italy, Russia, France and England. These people feel the horrors of war keenly. Their near and dear are dying on battlefields.

"When these men receive messages from the trenches—messages of sorrow, suffering, despair; when men in the trenches wrote their relatives in our land of freedom asking, 'Is there no balm in Gilead?' when this heartrending cry from the trenches reached my working people it reached me.

"From all sides, I was asked, 'Is there nothing the great American nation can do to end this slaughter?' I could rest no longer. I determined to bring together men and women of America having imagination, heart, courage and to embark with them on this peace mission. We have enough courage, if necessary, to shout "Peace"—if it must be done, shout it from housetops—to reach those mourning in the humblest hut or grandest palaces.

"The European slaughter will be ended soon. I have assurances from authoritative diplomatic sources making me optimistic. Even if I was not as confident of this, as I am, I feel I should continue every effort, dedicating my life and fortune to bring this horrible war to a speedy end."

MILITIA GUARDS FIRE RUINS IN HOPEWELL; MANY HOMELESS

EBIE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Two sections of the combination elevators of the Anchor Line Company were destroyed by fire early today. About 500,000 bushels of wheat said to have been intended for the allies was destroyed. The total loss is estimated at over $1,000,000. There is considerable suspicion regarding the origin of the fire.

By International News Service.

HOPEWELL, Va., Dec. 10.—Ruin and desolation reigned today while rescue parties searched for bodies in the blackened embers of America's first and greatest "war bride"—Hopewell, Va. Ten thousand people who yesterday found homes in the hundreds of flimsy shacks that made up the boom city were today hopeless and destitute, seeking food and shelter among the neighboring Virginia towns. They lost their all in the blaze, which swept away property valued at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. The miracle city, built in a year, disappeared over night.

A few pathetic little heaps of fitfully blazing embers, scattered over twenty-four city squares, guarded by 395 militiamen, were all that remained today of the mushroom city. The erstwhile dance halls, cabarets, saloons and gambling houses, with their wood and canvas false fronts and their long, low buildings had been swept away in a swirl of smoke and flames.

SEARCH FOR BODIES.

Today and throughout the night the search for bodies among the ruins was varied by the sniping of looters by the militia. The sharp crack of the militia rifles resounded through the fire-swept district, but no definite reports on casualties could be secured from the militia officers in charge.

Leaders in Hopewell's civic and business life, however, said that during the early part of last night a mob of frantic men, crazed by the loss of their homes and their household goods, had captured a negro thieving among the ruins and had hanged him to the nearest tree.

Today the ten thousand erstwhile inhabitants of Hopewell were scattered in little groups over 100 square miles of Virginia. Public buildings and homes in the little towns nearby were filled to overflowing with refugees, while Petersburg, Va., ten miles away, sheltered thousands.

The militia found $200,000 in cash and securities in the ruins of the Hopewell Bank, and the Farmers and Merchants bank. It was removed under heavy guard.

Meantime the relief capacity of Eastern Virginia was taxed to the utmost. Richmond, Petersburg, Norfolk and Newport News organized relief committees and relief expeditions. Hundreds of Virginia homes were opened to the unfortunate foreigners, most of whom were too dazed by the misfortune to even seek for aid.

Melrose Woman Flees Fire Into the Chilly Air

Mrs. James J. Feeley was driven out into the freezing morning air early today by a fire which did damage estimated by firemen at $1,000 to the Feeley residence on Forest street, Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Feeley have been in Maine. Mrs. Feeley returned home the first of the week ahead of her husband. At 4.30 she was awakened by smoke. She ran to a window and called loud enough to be heard by Special Officer James J. Lavin, who lives next door.

Lavin telephoned the fire department, then ran over to Feeley's just as Mrs. Feeley, with an overcoat thrown over her nightclothing, came out of her home to escape the stifling smoke. She took refuge in the Lavin house while firemen extinguished the fire.

The fire started in the wall of the second floor. It is thought to have been caused by an overheated chimney.

MRS. HANNON ARRESTED IN LOVE SUIT

tody. It was only after the repeated pleas of Attorney John J. Devlin, her daughter's counsel, that she finally yielded.

The arrangements for the bond were then completed in the Canfield's home, the latter signing the necessary papers with Attorney Devlin and Deputy Sheriff Herman A. Paster as witnesses. Mrs. Hannon had been escorted to her mother's home by three two men when repeated efforts to secure Mrs. Canfield's aid by telephone had failed.

Mrs. Hannon's arrest followed a sensational taxicab chase through the heart of this city. With Mrs. Hannon in one cab and Deputy Sheriff Paster in another, the two machines raced up and down more than a dozen city blocks, the former eventually eluding her pursuer amid the crowded traffic on Weybosset street. Her escape was but temporary, however, and the trail recovered, Deputy Sheriff Paster shortly after heard located her in the office of her attorney.

The chase began in front of No. 264 Benefit street, where Mrs. Hannon occupies an apartment above the one in which her mother lives. With the warrant, issued earlier in the day, in his pocket, Deputy Sheriff Paster had awaited her appearance in front of the house more than three hours. His vigilance was finally rewarded when, just as dusk was falling, a taxi, in which she was returning home from a downtown shopping trip, drew up at the curb.

As Mrs. Hannon stepped out Deputy Sheriff Paster stepped quickly forward. Mrs. Hannon, who is said to have heard that a suit was being planned against her, as quickly recognized the deputy, however, and scrambled hastily back into her cab.

ELUDED SERVICE.

She slammed the door just as the deputy, flourishing his warrant, sprang to intercept her. As the thwarted official reached to open the door Mrs. Hannon shouted a hasty word to the chauffeur and the cab shot suddenly ahead. A moment later it was beyond the deputy's reach.

Another taxi chanced along at this moment, however, and, hailing it, Deputy Sheriff Paster jumped aboard and urged the driver into hot pursuit. There followed the spectacular race through the crowded streets of the downtown district. Three or four times the cars came abreast of each other, but each time Mrs. Hannon's chauffeur quickly forged himself again into the lead. At length, as the cars speeded into Weybosset street, the deputy sheriff lost the trail and was seemingly left hopelessly out of the race.

Half an hour later, however Deputy Sheriff Paster saw the car used by Mrs. Hannon standing in front of a downtown hotel. He recognized the chauffeur, who, under questioning, admitted that Mrs. Hannon had been his recent fare. He then informed the deputy that he had left Mrs. Hannon at her attorney's office in the Grosvenor building on Weybosset street.

WOMAN BREAKS DOWN.

Deputy Sheriff Paster at once drove there. He repaired to Attorney Devlin's office and rapped on the door. Mrs. Hannon answered in person. She was alone in the office. When she recognized the deputy she essayed to shut the door in his face. The latter quickly shoved out a foot, however, and pushed his way inside. There he drew out his warrant, read it through and declared Mrs. Hannon, who was then in tears, under arrest.

The deputy kept Mrs. Hannon under guard in the office until Attorney Devlin reappeared.

The latter, being quickly appraised of the situation, thereupon proceeded to get in touch with Mrs. Hannon's mother in an effort to arrange bonds. Several telephone appeals proved futile, however, it is said, Mrs. Canfield refused to listen.

With his client thus facing the night under detention in the sheriff's office, Attorney Devlin secured the deputy's permission to take the girl personally before her mother. With the deputy on one side and the attorney on the other the trio thereupon walked the two or three blocks from Devlin's office to the Canfield home.

According to those present, a stormy scene occurred when Mrs. Hannon faced her mother in the latter's parlor. At first, it is said, Mrs. Canfield refused to assist her daughter in any way. In the end however, she finally yielded, signed the bond and thus released her daughter from the deputy's custody.

CALLS UP JOHNSON.

Once released, Mrs. Hannon, it is said, stepped to a telephone and called up Mr. Johnson. Over the phone she is quoted as having said to the party on the other end: "They've got me." To this she is quoted as having later added: "No, you can't do anything for me now."

Neither Mrs. Hannon nor her mother would discuss the matter in any way. Attorney Joseph H. Coen, who represents Mrs. Johnson, was a little more prone to talk, however. He said:

"We claim that Mrs. Hannon and Johnson have been meeting quite frequently. We claim that they have been seen riding together in taxicabs around this city. We claim further that Mrs. Hannon was the cause of Johnson leaving his home ten days ago. He has not been back there since. We maintain that all this constitutes an alienation of affection on the part of Mrs. Hannon."

2 BOSTON MEN HELD AS BANK ROBBERS

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10.—Frank Lohr, twenty-one, alias Slim, and James Lowe, twenty-two, alias Frank Dixon, both of Boston, arrested in Minneapolis within a few hours after the Western State Bank here was robbed of $5,000 yesterday afternoon, confessed, according to the police, that they were in the party of three bandits who, unmasked, looted the building while a traffic policeman stood outside.

The police are looking for two others implicated in the robbery, as well as a chauffeur who drove them in the car with which they evaded pursuit.

A curious landlady was the undoing of the two men. They rented a room after the hold-up, and hid $900 and two revolvers in the pillow slips and mattress.

She found them while investigating their baggage during the men's absence from the room. A few hours later, The police were told and caught the men when they returned.

She also has promised to sing six times in opera for charity in the early Spring. In April she will leave for New York for a short American trip.

DRAW KEEPER HELD IN DEATH CASE

SAGAMORE, Dec. 10.—Manuel Manson, operator of the drawbridge over the Cape Cod Canal, was arraigned today on a charge of criminal negligence and held in $3,000 for a hearing Monday, in connection with the fatal accident at the bridge last night.

Manson opened the draw of the bridge, it is claimed, while an automobile containing three people was crossing; and the machine was dropped into the water. Miss Emma Pierson of Centreville, was drowned; and Mrs. Albert Stark and Philip F. Cooney of the Hotel Sagamore had narrow escapes.

Manson was arrested shortly after the accident and is lodged in the jail at Bunstable.

It is evident that Manson failed to see the automobile on the bridge when he started the machinery to raise the draw.

The three persons who were precipitated into the water had just stepped into the automobile and Mr. Cooney was about to start when suddenly he felt the drawbridge lifting under him.

Although he applied the brakes and did everything possible the car simply slid sideways and dropped into the water of the Cape Cod Canal, carrying its human freight with it.

Their cries for help brought Walter Palmer, who lives nearby. He plunged into the water and swam out and grabbed hold of Mr. Cooney. He managed to bring him to shore, and by this time others who had been attracted to the place by the shouts rushed to his assistance, and Mr. Cooney and Mr. Palmer were rushed to Hotel Sagamore.

The drawbridge had been opened to allow the passage of a tug, and the crew of this craft, hearing the cries, put about and made an effort to assist in the rescues. In some manner Mrs. Starck got ashore, and she was sent to Hotel Sagamore, where her condition is considered extremely critical.

An emergency call had been sent to Hussard's Bay for help, and the tug Catherine Moran was sent down. The collector's boat at the eastern end of the canal, at the breakwater, was also notified, and on the way to the scene the collector's boat found the body of Miss Pierson floating in the canal.

WOMEN LOSE IN CAMBRIDGE APPEAL

Cambridge women lost today, through a decision of Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court, their fight to prevent the Mayor of Cambridge, under the new "Plan B" charter, from being ex-officio chairman of the School Board.

"Plan B" charter, accepted by Cambridge voters at the last State election, provides for election of a Mayor and, among other officers, six members of the School Board, the Mayor to be chairman.

The women in voting for School Board candidates on the usual special ballot may vote for six ordinary members. Some of the Cambridge women felt they had a right to vote for seven members of the Board, that is, they wished to have a voice in the election of the School Board chairman and not merely accept, as chairman ex-officio, whoever should be elected Mayor by the men.

Edna Lawrence Spencer, May Ware Allen, Elizabeth Hoar Storer, A. Louise Harlow and Elizabeth A. Jones, describing themselves as "female citizens of Cambridge," petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to Compel City Clerk Brandon to place the name of Mayorelect candidates upon the women's special School Board ballot.

In discussing this petition today Judge Pierce said:

"The Mayor is not an elective member of the Board and is a member, not because he has been elected to it, but is a member ex-officio by virtue of his office as Mayor."

Roger Sherman Hoar appeared for the women and City Solicitor James M. Aylward for the City Clerk.

Have You a Farm to Sell?

The Boston Sunday American is the best medium in all New England through which to sell a farm. A great many people in Boston and throughout New England read the American for good farms offered for sale.

The advertising rates in the American are low and the results big.

When you write an "Ad" be sure to describe your property carefully and in detail. If you insert your "Ad" only once the Sunday American is best, but we advise readers to use seven insertions, for continuous advertising is always profitable.

To encourage continuous advertising the American has established a reduced rate for seven consecutive insertions.

Send your "Ad" with instructions to the Classified Advertising Manager, Boston American.

THREE OF THE FOUR G. G. A. CANDIDATES LAUNCH VIGOROUS ATTACKS AT MAYOR CURLEY

"Will We Have a Curley Council, or a Citizens' Council?" They Ask.

Three of the four Good Government candidates for the City Council today issued statements in support of their campaign and attacking Mayor Curley.

Councilman Walter L. Collins struck home on the theme of the Mayor's "Familiar longing to hold two offices at one and the same time."

Councilman John J. Attridge's point was the question: "Shall Mr. Curley be Mayor and City Council, too?"

And Thomas J. Kenny attacked the Mayor's efforts to bring party politics into the campaign. Mr. Kenny said:

Mr. Curley submits to the public a partial list of the men and women who contributed to my campaign in 1914. The Mayor proceeds to name and identify these ladies and gentlemen as recently contributors to the Republican State campaign, which I have no doubt they were.

The men named on the list submitted by Mr. Curley are well known to be Republicans; but in the affairs of our city, nevertheless, true to the spirit of the charter which has served Boston so well, they are non-partisan. They showed this non-partisanship when in 1914 they voted for the Democrat, there another Democrat, and preferred Thomas J. Kenny's candidacy to Mr. Curley's candidacy. Being Republicans, they, of course, had every right to contribute to the campaign fund of their own party in a State campaign.

I confess my own astonishment at the sudden change which appears to have come over Mr. Curley in this campaign on the subject of party politics in city affairs. I say this because in Tremont Temple last year His Honor the Mayor uttered a notable inaugural address with these ringing words:

"The present system of election has resulted in the substitute of absolute liberty of action from party dictation, and marks the tremendous as a controlling factor in municipal campaigns of pledges, promises and obligations invariably redeemed at the expense of the public treasury. This old order, which I trust is happily ended, is largely responsible for our present bad rate and debt."

The people of Boston were glad to find Mr. Curley on his inauguration day thus filled with the spirit of non-partisanship in city affairs. They deeply regret, I am sure, that the Mayor has now returned, apparently, to the "old order," which he then abhorred.

I might remind Mr. Curley that he, on his side, today and the support of a few men who, like Election Commissioner Selleriich, are staunch Republican in the politics of State and nation. But this is as it should be. In city affairs, no party lines, but, instead, Republicans and Democrats on both sides.

I hope, and today I believe sincerely, that most Fursely more Republicans, and more Democrats, too, will support the Citizens' ticket than the Curley ticket for the City Council.

Councilman Collins said:

As we reach the closing days of the campaign the Mayor, I believe, stands revealed in his familiar longing to hold two offices at one and the same time. His Honor's love of power is insatiable.

Mr. Curley, citizens will remember, for eleven months was Councilman and Congressman. Subsequently for some time he was Congressman and Mayor.

In this campaign, His Honor the Mayor—for Mr. Curley is the hero—boldly names four candidates for the City Council, and asks the people of Boston to elect them for him.

Every effort has been made to make it appear that the citizens' candidates are men so completely out of touch with ordinary men, so utterly indifferent to the problems and the aspirations of the humbler citizen, that our re-election would be prejudicial to the best interests of the great masses of our citizens.

One would almost think that we are men without experience and record in public affairs, whereas three of us, Mr. Attridge, Mr. Sherrow and I, are members of the Council at present, and Mr. Kenny has served in the Council with honor and distinction.

Because of the nature of some of the attacks which have been made upon me, and for no other reason, I deem it proper to say that my record in the public service is open to all, and that I am certain there is nothing in it to show that at any time have I been other than the representative of all classes of our people. As chairman of the City Council on Appropriations, it was my pleasure, as well as my duty, to recommend the increases in the salaries of firemen and policemen.

I respectfully offer, for the consideration of my fellow citizens, a record as an independent Councilman who takes orders from no man, who is no man's man, but who seeks always and solely the best interests of Boston and all her people.

Councilman Attridge said:

Somebody answered that I owe something about the secret meetings to which His Honor the Mayor is with high hand ordering the faithful employes of the city, and checking off their appearance, or their failure to appear, by means of the addressed cards of admission taken up at the door.

I am sure we may all, the city employes, other citizens, Mr. Kenny, Mr. Sherrow, Mr. Collins and I, leave this question of the payroll to the public opinion of Boston. For my own part, certainly, a million all my life, the son of a good father who was himself a city laborer, I am confident that the wage earners of Boston, studying my record in the government, will see in me a friend.

But this campaign ought to be decided on other questions. Have the Citizens' Council candidates been faithful public officers? Are we men of experience, good judgment and independence? Would it be good for Boston to have the Council, which appropriates your money, completely dominated by the Mayor, who directs the expenditure of the moneys thus appropriated?

Shall Mr. Curley be Mayor and City Council, too? There is no other issue in this campaign, gentlemen, and although we have been led away from the track, in search for Otto Phillips and other busy gentlemen, we always get back to this: A Curley Council, or a Citizens' Council?

And the citizens may take fair warning from the history of the new electric lighting contract.

The Edison Company proposed a contract which was vigorously supported, urged and defended before the City Council by Mr. Curley. The Mayor told us, on one occasion, that the company's "final" position was that we must "take it or leave it."

Independent in our judgment, however, and not "ordered around" as the Mayor would undoubtedly order a Curley council, we held our ground in the voters' behalf, and we forced the illuminating company to present a new contract improved in a dozen particulars, and likely, it may be, to save the citizens of Boston many thousands of dollars.

This contract was a $1,500,000 affair. In its original form, strongly labored by the Mayor, it proposed to give the city two-thirds of the benefits which may be derived from any general reduction in the cost of electricity to the company.

The new contract, to suggest but one example of the changes, gives the city three-quarters of such possible benefit and the complete one-quarter. The electric lighting contract is an unanswerable argument in Mr. Curley's plea for a Curley Council.

CARROLL NOTE ENDORSES KENNY

The following letter was received by Thomas J. Kenny, candidate for election to the City Council, today, from Attorney Francis M. Carroll, fire commissioner under former Mayor Fitzgerald:

Hon. Thomas J. Kenny,
Boston, Massachusetts.
Dear Mr. Kenny:

In the municipal election on Tuesday next I very strongly hope you and your colleagues who are indorsed by the Good Government Association may be successful. Your own splendid record in the public service entitles you to the compliment of an unprecedented majority over your opponent. Nor should there be any doubt or misgiving as to the choice of Messrs. Attridge, Collins and Storrow.

Mr. Attridge and Mr. Collins match your length of service in the Council, and have shown the same conscientious and unselfish devotion to duty. While I did not support Mr. Storrow for the mayoralty in 1909, I believe his wide experience, his training, his ability and public spirit make his election to the City Council of the utmost importance to all interests of the City of Boston. The welfare of those who labor in the city's employ will not suffer at the hands of Mr. Storrow, Mr. Attridge, Mr. Collins and yourself. Constructive policies having to do with the present and future development of Boston will, with the election of this group, have direction by men well-equipped and disinterested.

While there are estimable men among the other candidates, the issue as drawn in this campaign leaves no choice to those who stand for Boston's charter, its letter and its spirit. If elected under the conditions in which their candidacies are now presented, none of those who are canvassing unitedly as your opponents could hope to enjoy the measure of independence that should attach to a seat in the City Council with its advisory functions.

If to the appeal made in behalf of yourself and your colleagues the citizens of Boston respond by going to the polls next Tuesday, there will be no doubt that yourself, Mr. Collins, Mr. Storrow and Mr. Attridge will be triumphantly returned to the City Council.

Sincerely yours,
FRANCIS M. CARROLL.

Hostler Stowaways On Liner Bohemian

Seven young Americans who went to Europe for adventure returned as stowaways on the Leyland liner Bohemian, which docked today at Charlestown. They are: Henry Hardy of Portland, Edward Hughes of Lynn, Edward Barnet of Revere, Frank Melladay of Roxbury, William Mullins of Allston, Carl Cunningham of Baltimore and Edward Hammond of Chattanooga, Tenn.

They went over some weeks ago as hostlers, disposed of their return certificates and went forth to get a glimpse of hostilities, but conditions were so dreary that the "Sorry Seven" finally wriggled into the Bohemian's coal bunkers. They were discovered the second day out and put to work.

ECZEMA ALL OVER CHILD'S HEAD

Caused Hair To Fall Out. Little Boy Caught Trouble. Itched and Burned.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl's eczema formed little sore eruptions on her head. It spread all over her head, and her scalp was red and sore. It caused her hair to fall out and stopped the growth of the hair in every way. Somehow my little boy caught it and had his head affected just like the girl's. Both of their heads broke out in pimples and itched and burned causing them to irritate the affected parts. My little boy was cross and fretful, and my little girl would pick the eruption while asleep.

"Both children had it for seven months, and one day my oldest daughter said 'Why don't you use Cuticura Soap and Ointment?' So I tried them, and they healed their heads completely." (Signed) Mrs. Brosnan, 21 Emmon St., East Boston, Mass., Feb. 8, 1915.

Nurse, Suing, Says Child Gave Her Black Eye

Miss Ellen M. Creed, former nurse for Dr. Frederick W. Lord of No. 205 Beacon street, testified in the Suffolk Superior Civil Court that she received a black eye from a blow by nine-year-old Carol, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lord.

Because of injuries received to her eyes by blows from the child Miss Creed claims $10,000 damages. She says she was coaxing the child to retire early when she was hit on the head.

The child also hit her in the face, breaking her eyeglasses and causing medical treatment, Miss Creed says.

Annie Dereine, a former cook at the Lord home, and Agnes Kirrane testified they never saw the child strike any of the maids and never saw the discoloration of Miss Creed's eye.

PATHETIC APPEALS FOR XMAS BASKETS REACH THE AMERICAN

Flooding faster, like snowflakes as Winter deepens, the appeals for Christmas Baskets are pouring in upon the Christmas Basket Editor. In his mail today he found one that took him back seventeen years in memory, to the war with Spain, and brought to his mind a name familiar enough in that day—forgotten, perhaps, today.

The name is not printed, though you older folk would recognize with a thrill of pride that you are of the same nation as such a woman. But here is the letter:

Gentlemen:

I gave five sons to Uncle Sam and lost two. One on the battleship Maine and the other in the Philippine Islands. Now I am destitute and without money until the first of the month and would be grateful for any help you can give me.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. ——

NEED IS TREMENDOUS.

Which is one of the thousands on thousands of reasons why, with every means in your power, you should help the Fund to grow. Every penny you give helps; every check helps in proportion. No contribution is too small —nor does the Editor think it likely any will prove too large, for after all, the need is tremendous.

Here follow, for instance, four appealing letters taken at hazard from the Editor's mail. Read them, think them over, try to imagine yourself the writer of each one, try to vision the gloomy prospect ahead of those who write. Read now:

Dear Sir:

We would like you to send a basket. My husband has been sick for two years and out of work, and now he is sick at the hospital. I have four children and the oldest is thirteen and the youngest is five. We would be very thankful to you.

FAMILIES IN NEED.

Boston AMERICAN,

I am a poor woman with four small children, and my husband is in the hospital with consumption. I would be very thankful for something for Christmas.

Basket Editor.

Dear Sir:

If you have a basket to spare will you please send it to us. We have seven in our family and Christmas looks pretty blue so far for us six children and my mother, as only two of us are able to work and the pay is small, so I will thank you in advance, hoping you will try to send us one if you can, as I know it would make my mother, brothers and sisters very happy.

Dear Sir:

I was in the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for six long months. I wish you could help me at Christmas and I will appreciate your kindness very much.

I have four boys and two girls. The oldest thirteen and the next a girl of ten, then a boy of seven and a boy of five and a half years and a boy of four and a girl of ten months.

EVENTS AID FUND.

Meanwhile—funds come in. The Russell Club of firemen has sent a check for $25. Walter T. Perry of Jamaica Plain conducted a whist party last night at the White Whist Club, No. 694 Washington street, and a substantial sum was realized for the fund. Then, ahead, there are the red-letter dates in the campaign:

Friday evening, December 17—Subscription dance at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Monday evening, December 20—Tammany Club Christmas Ball in Symphony Hall.

Tuesday, December 21—Monster theatrical benefit at Colonial Theatre.

Everyone connected with these three enterprises is working to make them of record-breaking success. The Tammany Club ball promises to be most brilliant. A delightful gathering is in prospect for the Copley-Plaza subscription dance. As for the theatrical benefit—just wait until you read the advance announcement of talent, which is to appear soon.

These and other enterprises are helping, and individuals everywhere are doing their part in the work.

Have you done YOUR share?

BOSTON FIREMEN SEND $25 TO AMERICAN'S BASKET FUND

Editor of Boston AMERICAN:

The spirit of Christmas calls for "Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men." That spirit is exemplified in your Christmas Basket endeavor—a spirit which certainly finds credit in the eyes of the Savior.

To help the splendid work, the firemen of Boston desire that you accept the enclosed check for twenty-five dollars.

Very sincerely,
RUSSELL FIRE CLUB

GRAIN BOARD OF CHAMBER ORGANIZES

At the organization meeting of the executive committee of the Grain Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the year 1916 William D. Fulton was elected chairman and William S. Leavitt was elected vice-chairman. This committee considers all matters affecting the grain trade of the Chamber and makes recommendations on its findings to the directors for their action.

The personnel of the committee for this year follows:

William D. Fulton, chairman; William S. Leavitt, vice-chairman; Henry A. Bascom, Matthew D. Benzaquin, Fred H. Brown, William A. Campbell, George W. Collier, George W. Crampton, Rodney T. Hardy, Harry S. Levinton, Edward MacLeod and Henry P. Smith.

The chamber has sent throughout New England to all commercial organizations an invitation to attend a meeting in Boston on December 17, at which will be considered plans for concerted opposition to the proposed increases in rates from Boston to the Southeast, increases which would place Boston at a disadvantage in competition with New York. For many years the rates have been from Boston the same as those from New York, and the proposed increase would seriously threaten Boston's trade with the great Southeast in competition with New York.

The chamber has gone on record in opposition to the increases, and the manager of the transportation bureau has gone to Washington to protest against them.

22 CARLOADS OF FREIGHT LOST IN WRECK

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—Twenty-two freight cars and their contents were destroyed in a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad near Cornwell, Pa., early today. A brakeman and an engineer were slightly injured. One train going east was accidentally derailed and the train coming west smashed into it.

Charlotte Smith's Face Slapped by Unknown Woman

Charlotte Smith, prominent for many years in civic work in this city and who a year ago tried to get the Legislature to impose a tax on bachelors, was assaulted at Washington and Oak streets, South End, according to a report she made at the Lagrange street station.

She says a woman whom identified as well known to her, slapped her face without provocation. The woman was in the company of another woman and a man and they had passed her when her assailant turned about and struck her without warning. She says she is sure she has never seen any of the party before.

SISTER DIES AT ST. JOSEPH'S SCHOOL

Sister Mary Vincent, superior of St. Joseph's parochial school, Lynn, died at the Sisters' convent, Grove street, early today, after an illness of only a week. She was fifty-six years old, and joined the order of St. Joseph thirty years ago. She was Mary Rooney of Malden before joining the order.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is' if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, wash and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Advertisement.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, bilious or feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "Fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs"; then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

VICTORY SCORED FOR NEUTRALS IN BRITISH BACKDOWN

Insistent Publicity by Hearst Newspapers Given Credit for Successful Fight.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Great Britain has yielded to the United States in the controversy over the seizure and requisition of vessels of the American Transatlantic Steamship Company.

The British government informed the State Department that it will cancel the requisition of the steamships Hocking and Genesee. They will be detained, however, and made the subject of test cases in the prize courts at Halifax and St. Lucia, to decide the question of their enemy ownership.

The steamer Kankakee will be released.

Great Britain will seize no other vessels of the company, at least until the courts have passed upon the questions of ownership.

This is the first distinct victory the State Department has scored over the British Foreign Office since Great Britain's aggressions on neutral commerce were made the subject of inquiry and protest, by this government.

INSISTENT PUBLICITY.

In every quarter credit was given to the Hearst newspapers for the fight they have made. Senators and members of Congress were outspoken in commending the vigor with which the Hearst newspapers have championed the cause of American commerce.

High officials of the government, who cannot express themselves publicly admitted gratefully that a most important factor in the case, contributing largely to the favorable outcome, was the insistent publicity given the facts and the demands of the American Transatlantic Company in the columns of the Hearst newspapers.

The effect of the decision of the British government will be to permit the steamship Winnebago at Buenos Ayres, the Ausable at Galveston and the Winneconne at New York, to sail for their destinations.

These vessels are owned by the American Trans-Atlantic Company, and have been held in port by fear of seizure by British cruisers.

Another important result, it is believed, will be the lifting of the British blockade of the port of New York, as the principal business of the British cruisers in that vicinity has been to watch for the appearance of vessels of the American Transatlantic Company.

TEST CASES.

The official explanation of the present status of the cases and the possible future developments, as obtained from a high official, is as follows:

The United States demanded that the Hocking and Genesee be made test cases to determine the right of Great Britain to requisition an American ship or the vessel of any other neutral, before it has been condemned by a prize court under the rules of international law.

We demanded that the Hocking and Genesee be retained in the prize court. We furnished Ambassador Page with a protest against the requisitioning of the Hocking case as entirely unprecedented and in violation of international law.

We hold that it would be absolutely unfounded in Great Britain if she held that part of the vessels were enemy-owned, to take them forcibly into her possession and later return us such part as she thought were not enemy owned.

COMPLETE SURRENDER.

Great Britain has apparently unconditionally surrendered on our demand that the vessels now in court should be held there.

The next possible development is that the prize court may condemn the vessels as enemy-owned and then proceed to regard them under that form of law. In that event the State Department will ask for the record.

Mr. Wagner probably will show that there was a denial of justice and on that the department will allege a denial of justice out of the record will, and there will be another acute diplomatic question. If Great Britain does not yield again then the department will have to pass the question up to a higher authority.

In the prize court proceedings it is understood that Mr. Wagner will submit affidavits from all the stockholders of his company to show that the vessels are entirely American owned.

The cases of the Hocking and other vessels of the company were handled principally by Cone Johnson, the solicitor of the State Department. Mr. Johnson formulated the demands upon Great Britain from the inception of the controversy.

The consistent statement by State Department officials after the report that the Genesee was requisitioned was that the act was "the most high-handed of all the outrages by Great Britain against neutral commerce."

Praise Hearst Papers For Great Victory For American Ships

"I feel that it is due to the Hearst newspapers that I express to them my thanks and appreciation for the hard and consistent fight they have made since the seizure of the Hocking, which marked the beginning of the affair—not for me personally, but in the interests of the American merchant marine, for which they have always battled.

"The Hearst newspapers took up the fight with the seizure of the Hocking, and in laboring for the rights of the American flag on the high seas are entitled now to credit for the victory which has been won." Extract from a letter from R. G. Wagner, president of the American Transatlantic Company, to the Boston American.

OPINIONS ON HEARST PAPERS' TRIUMPH IN HOCKING CASE

Following are some of the expressions of opinion voiced by representatives on the Hearst newspapers' triumph in the Hocking case:

HOKE SMITH, Senator from Georgia:

I have been watching the Hearst newspapers since this controversy over the Wagner vessels arose. They have been making a splendid fight for freedom of the sea. I am gratified that Great Britain has reversed its policy. I hope it will follow the same line of conduct in the future and revoke the orders of March 1 and March 11—the orders-in-council—and return to a course of fair dealing.

It will not take long to make Great Britain realize that the people of the United States will not submit quietly to abrogation to the laws of the seas.

LOUIS A. COOLIDGE, treasurer United Shoe Machinery Company:

It is a great triumph for the AMERICAN, which has insisted on the rights of the American ship owners on the seas. The Hocking case is victory clearly demonstrating what a great public influence may accomplish.

We have rights, and we must insist upon getting them. We will not submit to the abrogation of the laws of the sea.

Liberty is always worth fighting for. It is the persistent, untiring efforts of a great newspaper concern that has undoubtedly brought this result about, and we give the praise to the AMERICAN, which richly deserves this great ship victory.

MORRIS SHEPPARD, Senator from Texas:

I think it would be gratifying to all Americans that there has been such a favorable response to President Wilson's communication to England protesting against the seizure of the Wagner vessels.

I hope it will result in recognition by Great Britain of our right to the freedom of the seas.

I am sure the Hearst newspapers should be gratified at the remarkable result of the fine fight they have put up to bring from Great Britain a recognition of American rights.

DUNCAN U. FLETCHER, Senator from Florida:

The Hearst papers have done a great service in throwing light on the illegality of requisitioning vessels flying the American flag before a decision by the prize court. They made a splendid fight, and high praise should be given to them for their insistence upon the rights of American ship owners and for their part in what has been accomplished.

The seizures were in accordance with orders in council and directly contrary to the declaration of London, which provided that the determination of a neutral should be by the flag she flew.

I believe in cases of real and genuine doubt that we cannot dispute the right to inquire into bona fide ownership. Pt the presumption ought to be that a ship is neutral unless proved otherwise.

MILES POINDEXTER, Senator from Washington:

The Hearst newspapers have made a splendid fight for the rights of American vessels. The change of attitude on the part of the British government is truly notable, and public opinion has done much in forcing this change of attitude and in getting concessions.

In awakening the American people to a realization of the infringement on American rights, the Hearst newspapers have done a valuable public service.

HENRY F. ASHURST, Senator from Arizona:

I am very pleased by the result of the insistence upon American rights and I congratulate warmly the enterprise and patriotism of the Hearst newspapers in assisting and promoting the result.

FRED A. BRITTEN, Congressman from Illinois and member of the Committee on Naval Affairs:

My heartiest congratulations to the Hearst newspapers for their successful efforts in bringing about recognition of American principles on the high seas, where our neutral commerce has been too long arbitrarily interfered with by Great Britain.

I am glad to co-operate with the present administration in bringing about the protection of American lives on the high seas, but at the same time must criticise the pro-British attitude the President has shown since the inception of the terrible conflict in Europe, to the detriment of American commerce generally.

Instead of giving prosperity in spots, where war munitions orders prevail, our farmers, cotton growers and manufacturers throughout the country should be permitted to accept orders at least from every neutral country on earth and this England has steadfastly refused to permit. I hope Mr. Hearst will keep up his good work in this direction in the interest of all Americans.

WAGNER SAYS BRITISH BACKDOWN IS A HEARST NEWSPAPER VICTORY

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—"It is a victory for the American merchant marine," said President Wagner of the American Transatlantic Company, commenting on the British backdown, which the Hearst newspapers' campaign for freedom of the seas insured.

"From the beginning we have hoped that our vessels would form a part of the American merchant marine service, which has been so widely discussed. There has never been a time, since our company was organized, that there was any other than a genuine and absolute American ownership and interest in the concern. It was for this reason we so bitterly resented Great Britain's unlawful interference with our business.

"Now we shall work with the shipping business and prove our good faith to American shippers. Our original plan was to develop the South American trade. To this we shall apply ourselves.

"But the victory is not complete. Eight of our ships are to be permitted, by consent of the British government, to operate temporarily without interference. But the Hocking and the Genesee must go through the British prize court, to test the right of our entire fleet to the freedom of the seas.

"While accepting this concession, I shall continue to fight against the prize court proceeding. The fact still remains, according to our view, that the seizure of the Hocking and the Genesee was illegal and without justification. Our company is American in spirit and in fact."

The news that the fleet had been released for service started a bustle of activity in the offices of the American Transatlantic Company at No. 17 State street. It can be said now that the Winneconne has been loaded with freight for several days and was to have been sent out under cover of darkness in the hope of evading the British blockading cruisers off Sandy Hook.

Instead, the Winneconne will now probably clear in daylight, Saturday, with a cargo of oil cake for Scandinavian ports. The Ausable will go out of Galveston in a few days bound for the same ports.

The FIRST Records of Marimba Music

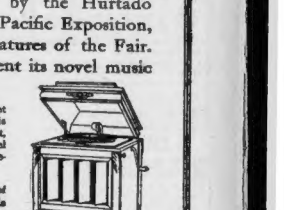
Marimba music is a new sensation to North American ears. Favorite compositions played on the marimba assume a new individuality—the effects obtained are fairly startling.

This little-known Central American instrument was first presented in the United States by the Hurtado Brothers of Guatemala at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, where it speedily became one of the features of the Fair. The Columbia Company is first to present its novel music in record form.



The instrument itself, as pictured here, is over twelve feet long, and has wooden "keys" arranged as in the xylophone. It is played in a manner similar to that of the better-known instrument, but unlike it, each key of the marimba is equipped with a novel "resonator"—a triangular wooden tube that reverberates with tremendous sonority as the key is struck.

Marimba effects are so far outside the musical experience of all but globe-trotters, that in Columbia Double-Disc Records No. A1832 and A1845, old favorites were purposely selected to display the difference of rendering—the first offering Suppe's "Poet and Peasant" and "Pique Dame," the second, Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz" and "The Three Jewels" two-step of Moreno.

Listen to these records and note the resonant, booming bass harmonies; the sparkling, vivid "trilling" as the scale is sharply ascended; the new impressiveness or gaiety each passage gains in this unique interpretation—and you will feel the thrill of marimba music at its best. Columbia Records A1832 and A1845—75c, are genuine musical novelties of extraordinary interest.

HOKE SMITH ASSAILS BRITAIN FOR BLOCKADE IN SENATE SPEECH

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—"The United States must notify Great Britain that it will omit no word or act to enforce its rights upon the high seas!"

That was the burden of one of the most sensational speeches ever delivered in Congress, in which Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia assailed the British interference with American commerce in opening today the campaign to secure investigation of the commercial blockade of the allies.

The Senator spoke in support of his resolution to have the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations probe the situation and recommend to Congress the "best way of proceeding to end the illegal treatment of American ships and cargoes."

He made it plain that, since the protests of the State Department have brought no relief, it was up to Congress to seek the remedy. And he intimated that one of the best weapons available would be an embargo on the exportation of foodstuffs.

BLOCKADE ILLEGAL.

"Great Britain simply seizes the vessels carrying cargoes owned by citizens of neutral countries whether coming out or going into the ports of the countries of Northern Europe," declared Senator Smith. "That this blockade is illegal cannot be question.

"It has been and is a deliberate disregard of the rights of neutrals by Great Britain. There can be no pretence that this interference with neutral trade is sustained by the custom of nations. Indeed, there has been no such pretence. It is a bold, reckless disregard of the freedom of the seas, which is the right of neutrals by the customs of nations and the rules of international law.

"Yet, for more than eight months, this disregard for sovereign rights of all neutral countries has been permitted to continue to the serious injury of the commerce of their citizens."

The Senator then declared that careful examination of the records thoroughly destroyed the British government's excuse that it is acting in accordance with the precedents laid down by the United States during the Civil War, and cited many instances to support his contention.

"I have presented so fully the rules of international law applicable to the rights of neutrals because it should be known that members of Congress appreciate how recklessly the rights of citizens of this country are being disregarded," he continued.

NOT A DEPENDENCY.

"For a hundred years the relations between the United States and Great Britain have been growing closer and closer. A most cordial regard has united the people of both countries. But we are not a dependency of Great Britain.

"Germany has always been a friend of the United States, and many of our best citizens love their fatherland only second to their love for our own country.

"We deplore the terrible war, but the United States owes it to her citizens and to her foreign friends to maintain a real neutrality.

"The United States, with other neutral nations, should demand from Great Britain at once that disregard for their rights cease. It may be necessary for the United States and other neutrals to let Great Britain understand that no word or act will be omitted to enforce their rights.

"We may hope Great Britain will comply, not alone because she must retain friendly relations with neutral nations to supply her own population with the necessities of life, but because the people of that great nation, and those there in authority, must desire to obey the rules of international law they have contributed so much to establish, and to which they are so thoroughly committed."

"Salonica Must Be Held at Any Cost"

By GENERAL DE LA CROIX,
Former President of the Superior War Council.

By International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The allies are fighting valiantly on both banks of the Vardar, are repulsing all attacks and are containing the enemy while reinforcements are arriving methodically. Whatever is the result of the Vardar fighting, the allies must not abandon Salonica.

The moral, political and military consequences of such action would be disastrous, while it would render Italian and Rumanian co-operation in the Balkans impossible, just when it is about to begin.

The question is whether the allies can gain time to strengthen their base at Salonica. One hundred and fifty thousand troops are not enough for this purpose. To that force must be added the 100,000 British now at the Dardanelles.

This army has 99 chances out of 100 of being hurled into the sea within two or three months if it does not evacuate the Gallipoli peninsula.

With the Serbian army of 200,000 still existing and 50,000 Italians, to say nothing of the Russians and 350,000 Franco-British at Salonica, we can prevent Germany from profiting from the occupation of Serbia and prepare for a vigorous offensive across Macedonia.

Laurier Sees German Victory Menace to U. S.

By International News Service.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—"If Germany triumphs, Canada will come under German rule," declared former Premier Wilfrid Laurier at a mass meeting of the Liberal party.

In that event, Sir Wilfrid said, there would be only two world powers, Germany and the United States.

"They could not exist in peace," the former Premier continued. "Germany would continue her preparations to dominate the world and the United States would be compelled to become a military nation.

"The United States would then regret her neutrality just as Britain regrets her neutrality in 1870."

VON NUBER TO BE ASKED TO LEAVE U. S.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Cancellation of the exequatur of Alexander von Nuber, Austrian consul-general in New York city, and a demand that he leave the country or face crimes, is contemplated by the United States government, it was learned today.

The Secretary refused to say what attitude he has taken on the claim made by Austrian sources, that the general activity of the Austrian representatives had been under the direct direction of Ambassador Dumba and that he having been withdrawn at the demand of the United States this government should drop all proceedings against other officials of the dual empire.

It was learned, however, that President Wilson has positively refused to accept any such viewpoint. The attitude of the administration, officials say, is that the New York Consul-General and the unnamed additional officials have flagrantly violated the hospitality of the United States, have final charges, will be the answer of the United States to the demand of the Austrian charge here that the Department of Justice withdraw its charge that he plotted to destroy American munition plants.

It is understood on high official authority that this action would have unlawfully conspired against its peace and its industries, and that their usefulness as consular officials is at an end. If the advice of the Department of Justice is accepted an effort will also be made to prosecute at least three of them criminally.

U. S. Armor Factory Bill in the Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—An appropriation of $11,000,000 for the establishment of a government armor plate factory is contained in a bill introduced in the Senate today by Senator Tillman, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee. The bill also fixes 20,000 tons of armor plate as the minimum yearly output of the plant.

The Greatest Mystery Story of the Year. By Elmer L. Reizenstein.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENTS.

Gerald Trask, a wealthy banker, is shot to death in his library, Robert Strickland, a friend of the victim, is held by the police, charged with the murder. Ten thousand dollars in cash, paid by Strickland to Trask that night, is mysteriously missing from the victim's safe. At the inquest Mrs. Trask testifies to a mysterious woman calling her husband on the telephone the night of the murder. She heard him say, "Is that you, Mag?" Malcolm Arbuckle, a noted criminal lawyer, is appointed counsel for Strickland, but Strickland refuses to give any information to assist in his defence and insists on his own guilt. Arbuckle resolves to visit Mrs. Strickland, but finds she has mysteriously disappeared. He visits Strickland's home and sees Strickland's nine-year-old daughter, Doris, who tells of a telephone conversation her mother had on the night of the tragedy with some one in Long Branch.

"WELL, first thing I thought I'd hand it into the office. And then the idea come to me, that I'd look inside of it first. And if there was anything valuable in it, why shouldn't youse truly get the reward. I didn't see no reason for dividin' it. I'd found it without any help. Was I right or wrong?"

"Well, that's what I done, anyway. A local happened to come along just then, and I was busy again for a few minutes. When I got time to look at the thing, I see that it had money in it sure enough. I wasn't goin' to take any chances emptying it out here to see what there was in it. Time enough to do that after I shut up shop, when there'd be nobody around to butt in. There's an awful lot of rubberers round a railroad station. You wouldn't believe it!"

I tried to look my regretful surprise.

"After I'd put the shutters up, I locked the door. Then I emptied the thing on that box over there. First, I counted the money. There was thirty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents. Then I took a look at the other things. There was the usual amount of truck you would expect to find in a woman's purse. A veil, half-a-dozen hairpins, some samples, and things like that. And there was three or four cards with her name on them. Mrs. Robert Strickland, and the address. I remember what it was. I don't just remember now."

"Yes, I know!"

"And there was a slip of paper with a Long Branch address written on it. I should say that it was in a man's handwritin'. Wait a bit, and I'll tell you. Now I have it. It was 206 Henderson place. That's only about three blocks from here."

"Well, as that was considerable nearer for me than goin' to the New York address, I thought I'd take a look at it on the way home. But the house was all dark. I was a little later than usual. It didn't look as if any one was stirrin' up worryin. So I made up my mind I'd go round the next day.

"The next day at noon hour, when there wasn't much doin', I gave Tommy Jenkins ten cents to watch the stand for half an hour, and I hikes back to old 206. There was nobody there but an old woman who must have thought I was a porch climber or somethin' like that. She kept the door on the chain, and talked to me through the crack. She said she didn't know of any party by the name of Strickland. She was sure they didn't belong there. She wouldn't tell me who did live there when they were was any person in the house. Said she had been alone there for ever so long. Finally she did admit that there had been a lady there the day before. But she didn't know her name. So there was nothing for me to do but go to the address on the card."

"One moment. Have you happened to hear who owned the house you went to?"

"Not yet. I haven't had time. But I'm goin' to. I'm sure curious."

"I felt pretty sure I could have told him the name of the owner. But I didn't.

"So," continued Mr. Burke, "that same night—the night of the murder, mind you, I got off a little earlier, spruced up a little bit, and went up to the city myself. I found the house without any trouble, and went in and read all the names on the the bells. Sure enough, the name of Strickland was there all right."

"One moment, Mr. Burke. Can you tell me what time that was?"

"There now!" said Mr. Burke in open admiration. "I just knew you'd ask that. And if I weren't a chump, I'd be able to tell you to the minute. But I can't, that is, exactly. But it couldn't have been long after half-past eight. I know I was on my way back down town when I looked at my watch to see if it was too late to go to a picture show or something. I thought as long as I had taken an evenin' off, I might as well amuse myself. Besides, didn't I have eight good bucks in my pocket that was all to the good?"

"Eight good what?"

"Bucks. Dollars. The reward, you know."

"Oh! They gave you eight dollars reward?"

"He did. After he'd counted the money, which was in three ten dollar bills, and the rest in twos and ones, he just rolled up the smaller bills and handed them to me. Oh, he's a fine man, all right. And him gettin' ready maybe then to commit a murder! But I'm gettin' ahead of my story.

"Well, there was a nice lookin' servant girl opened the door for me. And then I told her what I wanted and asked if a party by the name of Strickland was at home. 'Mr. or Mrs. Strickland?' she asks. I told her I guessed I wanted to see Mrs. Strickland. She asked me as pretty as you please to wait and she'd see. I heard a man's voice ask: 'Who's Mr. Burke?' And then a woman's voice answered: 'Why, I don't know.' Of course she didn't. How could she? Then the pretty servant girl came back and asked me to come in.

"I went into a big room all furnished up like the rooms you see on the stage. There was a big fine-lookin' man there and as pretty a woman as you'd see in a day's journey. The servant girl looked pretty good to me till I saw the lady of the house. After that—" Mr. Burke made an eloquent gesture.

"They both was as polite as could be an' asked me to take a chair. But the woman had a sort of scared look in her eyes. It seemed to be up to me to make the first move. So I says: 'I found a purse that belongs to you, mum, I think.' Quick as a flash, the lady says: 'Robert dear, your dinner will be ready now; you had better go in before it gets cold.'

"But he didn't seem to be in any hurry. 'I can wait a few minutes longer,' he says, easy' and pleasant like. 'I'll only take a minute, mum,' I says. 'I've come all the way from Long Branch.' 'Have you lost a purse, Mary?' he asks. 'Why, no; I don't think so,' says she. 'Are you sure, mum?' says I. She waited a minute before givin' me a new answer. 'Positive,' says she. And all the time she looked as if she wished I'd get me to go. I couldn't understand it.

"'Where did you find the purse, Mr. Burke?' asks the man. I see that he was Mr. Strickland. 'On the platform of the railroad station at Long Branch last night. I've been up here over there,' I told him 'Long Branch? Then it can't be yours, can it, Mary?' She thrown her head back sort of defiant like. 'Certainly not. Mr. Burke has evidently made a mistake.'

"That made me sort of tired. Here am I tryin' to be honest and return a purse that has nearly forty dollars in it. The first place I go, they acts as if they thought I was only makin' an excuse to try to break in. The second, they acts is if they could see that I was sort of guilty when I turned to him.

"'That's funny,' I says. 'There's half a dozen cards in it with Mrs. Strickland's name and address on 'em.'

"He looked kind of queer at that. He turned to her. But she was fussin' with some flowers on the table as if she hadn't rightly heard. What I said. 'That seems strange,' he says. 'Perhaps one of my friends might—' But she didn't let her finish. 'What kind of a purse is it, Mr. Burke?' But I knew still more. So I got up as if I was goin' to go, and I says: 'Well, if you haven't lost one, I'll be movin' along.'

"Then he turned to her very gentle. 'It's just possible that you've made a mistake, dear. Let Mrs. Strickland look at it,' he says to me. But I wasn't goin' to be caught like that. 'If you have you describe it first,' I reminds him.

"'Of course; you're perfectly right,' he laughed at his own mistake. Then he says to her: 'You haven't more than two or three purses, May; describe them to Mr. Burke.' But she just kept on fussin' with them flowers. 'But I haven't lost a purse.' If I'd been her husband, I'd a wanted to shake her.' Mebby he did, too. But just treated her as if she was a bad child. 'I know,' he says. 'But it would only take a moment to describe them.'

"She looked more scared than ever. But she tossed her head and began to rattle off about the purses so fast that I could hardly catch what she said. 'Well, there's my mesh bag, with the oxidized silver purse; there's that green leather bag you gave me for my birthday—' I shook my head to both. 'I guess this one isn't yours,' I said. And this time I really started for the door.

"'No, I knew it wasn't,' she called after me. And her voice sounded as if glad as could be! But he made me more try. 'Wait a minute; you've forgotten that French' black velvet affair you usually carry.' What kind?' says I, from the door. 'Black velvet with a gold clasp.' I took it from my pocket and held it up. 'This it?' I asks, lookin' at him.

"'Of course it is; isn't it, May?' She sort of fell into a big arm chair. She didn't look at the purse. She just looked at him. 'Yes, it looks like it. I don't understand,' she says in a faint voice.

"'How much was in it, mum?' I asks her. 'About forty dollars, I think.' 'That's right.' I says to him. 'Thirty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents. Count it, if you don't mind, sir.'

"He took it over to the table and counted it. That's the amount that's here. You say you found this at Long Branch, Mr. Burke?'

"'Yes, sir,' I told him. 'On the platform, last night. There was a slip of paper in it, with a Long Branch address written on it—206 Henderson place.'"

CHAPTER VII.
I Set About Getting Doris' Story.

THE next day it rained in torrents. All thought of going with my young friend for a walk in her favorite pleasure ground had to be abandoned. But, partly because I did not want to disappoint the child again, and partly because I wanted to question her on some points while the occurrences were still fresh in her mind, I determined to go up to Mrs. Standwood's to see Doris in spite of the storm.

Glancing up at the drawing room windows before I crossed the street, I could see her gazing disconsolately down at the wet pavements. A sudden realization of her lonelyness swept over me. Poor little girl! That she had suddenly and in an inexplicable manner lost both her parents was all that she knew now. How much more terrible would be her grief when she grew old enough to realize in what manner that loss had come about.

I stood for several minutes on the kerb, hoping that her glance might turn in my direction. At length my patience was rewarded. She saw and recognized me. I waved my hand to her, and she returned my salute, immediately disappearing from her post. I hastened across to the building, and, in a few moments found myself at Mrs. Stanwood's door. Doris was there, standing beside the maid. She gave no one of her pretty little courtesies, and held up her cheek to be kissed. An act which touched me most deeply, and made me feel, if possible, more remorseful than ever when I thought of the pain I might be about to cause her.

"Come right in the drawing room," she whispered in my ear. "I didn't tell them you were coming, 'cause I wanted it to be a surprise."

I was greatly puzzled. Who were they? I looked to the maid for an explanation. But she gave me no help, but stood looking down at Doris with an indulgent and kindly smile.

"Mrs. Stanwood begs you to excuse her until later," she said. "She hopes to see you before you go."

Doris watched me with growing impatience while I divested myself of my mackintosh and umbrella. When I was quite ready, she took my hand and led me into the drawing room, seated opposite each other at a diminutive table which was all set out with toy dishes were Hermann and the new doll that I had sent. My surprise was so genuine, that Doris was delighted. She clapped up and down, clapping her hands.

"You didn't guess who it was did you?"

"I certainly did not. Then you liked your new doll, did you?"

"Oh, yes!" she assured me. "And Hermann likes her, too. Her name is Gretchen," she announced.

I bowed formally to Gretchen, and was casting about in my mind as to just how I might best begin the task in hand, when Doris solved the problem for me by giving me a lead.

"Where did you go yesterday' Aunt Helen said you were going away."

"I went down to Long Branch," I said promptly.

"Oh, that's where Mr. Trask goes fishing, and where my mamma's purse was lost. Have you seen my mamma?"

"Not yet," I said hastily. "But I saw your daddy yesterday."

"Oh, did you? How is he? What did he say? And when is he coming for me?"

"I think his arm is better, I'm glad to say. He didn't say anything, because," I hastened on and, for she looked as if she were going to cry, "I didn't tell him anything about seeing you. I wanted that to be a surprise."

I could have blushed at myself! But I did not! Lord Forgive Me! Doris accepted my explanation.

"But when is he coming for me?"

"How would you like me to take you to see him first?"

Brilliant Scene at Fusiliers' Ball

H. S. LAWRENCE

The annual ball and levee of the Massachusetts Fusiliers Veteran Association held at the Copley-Plaza was attended by more than 1,000 persons, including representatives from all the branches of the service.

Among the guests were Lieutenant-Governor Cushing, members of the Governor's staff, Mayor Curley and Adjutant-General Cole.

The grand march was a distinctive feature. The guests and the Fusiliers formed in two different lines, entered the ball by different doors and joined in a platoon movement in the middle of the ballroom.

It was led by Major J. W. H. Myrick with Mrs. Harry L. Bagley, with Lieutenant-Governor Cushing and Mrs. Myrick following. There were 240 couples in line.

"Faust" Pleases Boston Audience

"Faust" never fails to please a Boston audience, and last night's performance by the Boston Grand Opera Company was no exception. It was a splendid production and delighted the large audience to the point of evoking enthusiastic applause.

Bakinneff's Mephistopheles was perhaps the most striking of the features of the evening. His make-up was nothing less than Satanic, and his acting and singing were a joy to the spectators.

As Marguerite Miss Lyne was again a success. Riccardo Martin sang a satisfactory Faust.

The "Walpurgis night" ballet was a wondrous production, and Miss Pavlowa danced in her inimitable manner, and her company with her.

FLUSH KIDNEYS WITH SALTS IF BACK IS ACHING

Take glass of Salts when Kidneys hurt or Bladder bothers you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which excites the kidneys, they become overworked, then the poisons get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get aches, nearly all rheumatism headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, cease eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

PLUTO is for well people who want to keep their health. It is also nature's remedy for indigestion, constipation, kidney, liver and stomach troubles. Bottled at French Lick Springs.

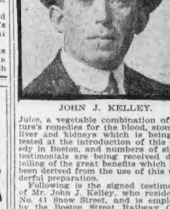
THE ONE TO HELP WAS PLANT JUICE

Boston Man Relates How He Tried Various Remedies Without Any Benefit.



JOHN J. KELLEY.

Stomach trouble is the direct cause of more derangements of the nervous system and general bodily functions, than any other ailment. No other remedy has been accorded the instant success that has been obtained by Plant Juice, a vegetable combination of Nature's remedies for the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys which is being attested at the introduction of this remedy in Boston, and hundreds of signed testimonials are being received daily, telling of the great benefits which have been derived from the use of this wonderful preparation.

Following is the signed testimonial of Mr. John J. Kelley, who resides at No. 41 Snow Street, and is employed by the Boston Street Railway, Company as motorman. He says:

"For the past three years I have suffered with catarrh of the head and stomach, indigestion and dyspepsia. My food would sour in my stomach and form gas and I could not keep any solid food in my stomach at all. I was so nervous and restless I could not sleep at night and would get up in the morning just as tired as if I had never gone to bed at all. I had no appetite on my head which gave me no relief. I have tried all kinds of medicines in hope of finding relief, but the only medicine which relieved me was Plant Juice, and after taking several bottles I now feel like a new man. All the dreadful trouble I had with my stomach is gone, I sleep well, eat any kind of food and it agrees with me. I only wish I had known of Plant Juice sooner, as it would have saved me hundreds of dollars."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is demonstrating the health juice and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

DENIES BRITISH WARSHIP IN 3-MILE LIMIT

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British ambassador to the U. S., before secretary of State Lansing evidence to refute the charge that a British warship chased the Danish steamer Oscar II inside of three-mile limit off the Atlantic coast two weeks ago.

Ambassador Spring-Rice submitted the testimony of the captain of the warship, who stated that at no time did he come closer than four and one-half miles of the coast. The name of the British warship was withheld by the ambassador.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Indeed, so powerful is Moone's Emerald Oil that soft bunches gotten [illegible] swollen glands and veins are reduced. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Generous sample on receipt of 10 cents from Moone Chemical Co., Rochester N. Y.—Advertisement

MRS. GILLMORE OFF TO 'VOTES' STATE

Ines Haynes Gillmore, the author and suffragist, has quit Massachusetts because the men of that State rejected true woman suffrage but more. Mrs. Gillmore has taken up a legal residence in California where woman suffrage flourishes.

The Suffragette writer has been passing the Winters in California of late years for a change of climate, but now she will make it her home State, even though she may not stay there all the year around.

She is quoted as saying: "I am taking up a legal residence in California in any spirit of anger toward Massachusetts. I am merely going to live where the opportunities of women are greater than they are in Massachusetts."

Mrs. Gillmore is a firm advocate of the labor cause, as well as of woman suffrage. She maintains that labor and the freedom of women will eventually save the world from war.

HAINES RULING ENFORCED ON OWN MEN

Medford commuters laughed all the way to work today at the joke on Mayor Benjamin F. Haines, having his own permit regulations enforced strictly upon his own political cardinates.

The Mayor ruled sternly that no open air rallies could be held without permits from the Mayor's office.

This is an off year so far as municipal campaigns go, but the Mayor is vigorously banning use of the entire state. Last night a rally was held at Harvard and Main streets, some Medford candidates with the Mayor himself scheduled to speak. Just in the evening Representative James Morrison had hands called off the rally in order when Lieutenant Jones Downing came along and interfered with.

"Let's see your permit," Morrison is quoted as asking with surprise. "Well we don't need the permit, but then it's for Mayor Haines' candidates."

"Makes no difference, no permit, no rally."

J. A. Collins, [illegible] manager for Haines, called Jones Downing a permit, dashed back and [illegible] was satisfied.

Collins' Record Shows Him Friend of City Employes

The AMERICAN is reminded by Councillor Walter A. Collins, a candidate for re-election to the City Council on the Citizens' ticket, that he, as well as Mr. Keany and Mr. Attridge, voted in favor of giving the city men an increase of pay from $2.25 to $2.50 a day, and that he, like Messrs. Keany and Attridge voted in favor of giving the city employes a holiday.

The AMERICAN is glad to correct its failure to mention Mr. Collins' name together with Mr. Keany and Mr. Attridge in its AMERICAN items that Mr. Collins has always voted for economical policies and only in the City Council and when a member of the Legislature. Among other things he was the author of the law against sweat shops while a member of the Legislature.

Now that a man who considers that $2.25 a day is [illegible] as the lowest class of European peasants would think that he could make [illegible] employes of Peter Keany, Walter Collins and Attridge are unfriendly to their interests.

AS WE GROW OLDER

our minds are quite as active as in former years, but our strength does not respond when we need it most—perhaps the kidneys are weak, the liver inactive, digestion poor, and nerves break down and we cannot do the things we did at former periods.

What we need is the rich food value in Scott's Emulsion to renew the blood and carry strength to every cell of the body, while its glycerine soothes the respiratory tract, and its hypophosphites strengthen the excitable nerves.

Scott's Emulsion is a scientific old-world, of unusual benefit to those past 40 years, particularly during the colder seasons. It imparts warmth and greater strength. One bottle will prove its worth. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

This statement was made after the arrest for the murder of Walter Brown, the negro who was eventually to send Dr. Franklin Mohr into eternity.

MARKET LACKED BREADTH.

The New York market lacked breadth in early trading, although it showed a slight improvement in tone during the first fifteen minutes. There was hesitancy about commitments in all quarters. There is a disposition to wait and learn how much there is behind peace rumors.

All [illegible] gained. Included American [illegible] American Smelting ¼, American Locomotive ¾, Baldwin ¾, Crucible ½, Republic Steel ⅝, Studebaker ⅝, Maxwell ⅝, Union Pacific ⅝, Reading ⅛ and U. S. Steel ⅛.

Among declines were Anaconda ¼, Chino ¼, Inspiration ¼, Mexican Petroleum ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅛ and Erie ⅛.

Unchanged issues included Atchison, Pennsylvania, Colorado Fuel, Distillers and Great Northern Ore.

ALASKA GOLD HIGHER.

There was not much business in Boston at the start and the majority of coppers declined. Zincs were also weak. Alaska Gold was active and strong. Within half an hour it advanced a point to 5. The price range was narrow in the local market and there was not much interest on the part of the public.

Among early declines were Allouez ¼, Calumet & Arizona, ex-dividend, 1½, Franklin ⅛, Shattuck-Arizona ⅛, Trinity ⅛, U. S. Smelting ⅝, American Zinc ¼, Butte & Superior ⅜, and Boston Elevated ½.

Greene-Cananea was up ¼. Isle Royale ⅛, United Fruit ½ and United Shoe ⅛. Before the end of the first hour United Fruit was 1¼ above yesterday's closing price.

There was a steadier tone to copper, smelter and lead in the metals market.

Anglo-French bonds opened in New York at 94⅝ with a sale of $15,000. This was followed by a sale of $1,000 at 94⅞.

THE National League recognizes the fact Chicago is a baseball city and that with a popular owner and a good club in the field, much good to the entire club fiat would be gained. There has been endless talk of a sale of this club to the Federal League men now operating in Chicago.

UMPIRE CHARLEY RIGLER, who has been ill of typhoid fever, is reported as fully recovered. Rigler lost thirty-eight pounds during his confinement at Glenville Hospital, Cleveland.

LOUIS PREPER of the Lynn club of the New England League is reported to have declared that President T. H Murnane of that organization is in favor of a merger of the New England and Eastern Association.

* * *

OW President Ebbett's proposal that the National League's opening be later than April 19 is to likely to meet with opposition. Presidents Hempstead of New York and Gaffney of Boston are willing to be shown, but at present do not favor it.

"April is our most uncertain month," said President Hempstead. "There would be absolutely no assurance of better weather by a delay of ten days or two weeks."

"I will side with Ebbetts if he will agree that he will cancel at his exhibition games with American League clubs," said President Gaffney. "Here he talks of a later opening and has booked the Yankees, Red Sox and Washingtons for ante-season games. If we put off the opening two weeks Charlie would probably make arrangements to entertain the Tigers, White Sox, Browns, Athletics and Clevelands also. Exhibition games among major league games has caused a decrease in baseball interest in the Spring than all the bad weather."

DEMANDS HOCKEY SHIFT DATES UNSATISFACTORY

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

Manager Louges of the Arena plans conferring with Ralph Winsor of the B. A. A. and Harvard Club at an early date and going over the schedule of the National Hockey League, which is proceeding on much better.

Louges is firm in his demands that some of the dates be shifted. He is insistent that some of the choice Saturday nights, which have been grabbed by the schedule maker, be abandoned. Harvard and Yale, Harvard and Princeton and other big games must be played on Saturday nights here. These nights cannot be given over to league games, So says Louges.

Local hockey followers are unanimous in stating that Louges is right in taking his stand against the allotted dates. They declare that they would much prefer watching the local teams play, than to see almost any of the New York aggregations, excepting possibly the St. Nicholas seven, which has as a member the wonderful Hobey Baker.

COLD WEATHER WELCOME.

The cold weather, which is gradually arriving, pleases the hockey players who cannot take advantage of the Arena surface. Many strong independent teams will be seen in action on the ponds once they freeze. Many of the school hockey teams are forced to await natural ice and the real wintry weather cannot come too soon to suit them.

Work on the Homen Coil,[illegible] rink is nearing completion and in the meanwhile the seven continues using the smoking room floor for its practice surface. The Harvard varsity is also enjoying practice on an asphalt floor liberally covered with water.

Hockey has invaded the sacred precincts of the Museum of Fine Arts and the opera house. From that centre of culture Arthur H Dudley comes forth with the announcement that a team of former college stars will be on the ice this season under the name of the Arlington A. A. They will seek games with fast teams in and around Boston on Saturday afternoons. Managers may address Arthur H. Dudley at Ruggles street and Huntington avenue.

The practice of Les Canadiens, the strong Canadian team, has begun with Howard McNamara as an added member of the squad. Joe Hall, Odie Cleghorn, Corbeau, Pitre and Lalonde were on the ice. In addition the Canadiens will have the services of Jack Bour, formerly of Victoria Harbor; Fulln and Matte.

President T. Emmett Quinn of the N. H. A. is making a tour of the training camps. From all reports he reports unusual interest in the game, despite the war.

At the recent meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association it was decided to give the options to such players as have enlisted. They may either play with their home team, their regimental team or any team in the town in which the remnant of battalion is located. The amateur status of players will be well looked after during the season. Henceforth players will be required to sign their names in full on the referee's reports. In addition the clubs will keep a set of cash and expense books open to inspection at all times.

President Farquharson proposed an amendment to the rules which makes it impressive that the players, in facing off for the puck, shall stand with their left-hand sides toward their opponent's goal. This prevents a left-handed player from facing the other way around and thus taking advantage of a right handed opponent. At the session it was decided that players absent from the country on military duty shall automatically be reinstated and eligible for membership in the association despite the automatic suspension.

Hamby Shore, the Ottawa coverpoint, has asked for his unconditional release. After he made arrangements to join the team, he discovered that he would be unable to devote [illegible] absence from the Interior Department

Harvard's schedule of hockey engagements has been arranged and the Crimson pucksters will climb in at least nine regular and two provisional contests.

Dec. 15—B. A. A. at Arena.
Jan. 8—Queen's at Arena.
Jan. 11—Cornell at Arena.
Jan. 15—Princeton at Arena.
Jan. 22—Princeton at New York.
Jan. 26—McGill at Arena.
Feb. 5—Dartmouth at Arena.
Feb. 12—Yale at Arena.
Feb. 19—Princeton at New York (one of two).
Feb. 26—Yale at New Haven.
Mar. 4—Yale at Arena (case of tie).

Seventy-five candidates are trying for positions on the Harvard freshman hockey team. At the organization meeting, held in the common room of Gore Hall, Sheffield, Shaw and Lawrence were made by Captain Johnny Morgan, Manager Nelson and Coach Smart, coach of last year's yearlings. Smart told the boys that he did not think he would be able to find time to coach this Winter, because of his work in the Law School. Practice starts next Monday. The squad will work out at the Hemenway Gym until the ice rinks in the Stadium are ready.

"Hagg" Wanamaker, Dartmouth's hockey idol, who is to coach this Winter's seven, has reported for duty. The squad has been working out on the smooth floor in the Alumni Gym for the past fortnight and is anxious to get outdoors and on the ice. Wanamaker refuses to discuss the outlook but the indications are that he will find that he has plenty of talent

Over forty candidates, including five members of last year's team, are trying for places on the Boston College High hockey seven. The loss of "Older" Falvey and "Phil" Haughey, now playing on the Boston College team, may not be felt, as there are some very promising players among the new men. Practice is being held every afternoon in the gym. Among last year's players back are Dave Murphy, Griffin, McIntyre, Bolger and Healey. The squad is being coached by Tom McCabe.

Owing to the crowded condition of the hockey practice sessions, the Arena will allow only the teams in the Interscholastic League to practice on the Arena surface.

The league this Winter will provide its own officials Last season there was much wrangling on the part of the coaches concerning some of the officials the Arena furnished.

The opening of the Interscholastic League will take place at the Arena on December 21 when Newton High and Rindge Tech clash.

Harry Lee, the gentleman jockey and track athlete, will be a candidate for the B. A. A. hockey team. He will report to Captain Huntington at the Arena next Tuesday night.

Walter Camp Is Through for All Times at Yale

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—Walter Camp, the Yale graduate, who made football the game it is today, is through. He made this claim here last night when he said that he had not only given up all other men at New Haven and also desired to withdraw from the Rules Committee. In the latter move however, he has been unsuccessful.

"Yes, I do say that I have severed all my official connections at Yale," said Camp. "That does not mean, though, that I am through with football in general.

"I have not only been forced to sacrifice my business during my thirty years' connection with Yale athletics, but I have also been forced to forego the chances of becoming out in football as I should like."

Sans Souci Ball Is Bound to Be Spicy

O'Reilly Sought by B. C. to Run Athletic Affairs

John D. O'Reilly, the former English High and Dorchester High coach, and now athletic director at Georgetown is sought as Boston College's football tutor for next Fall. Boston college authorities have about made up their minds to put all athletic affairs in the hands of one official, and O'Reilly is the man desired to fill the position.

O'Reilly is an all-round athletic coach of rare ability, and generally has winners. Rumor has it that he is not overly fond of his berth in Washington and that he will be glad to return to Boston.

The members of this year's football team will be guests at a reception and smoker given in their honor by the sophomore class this evening. Then a number of prominent alumni have banded together and the culminating banquet for the iron warriors after the Christmas holidays.

AWAIT HAUGHTON WORD MAY TELL ALL TONIGHT

The 1916 Harvard football captain will be chosen tonight, when the twenty-four Crimson warriors who had a hand trouncing the sons of Old Eli twenty days back will meet before the dinner at the Harvard Varsity Club and make their choice.

The following players are eligible to vote: Edward W. Mahan, William J Bolen, Richard G. C. King, Donald Watson, Richard Harte, Ernest W. Soucy, Kenneth B. G. Parson, J. A. Gilman, Harrie H. Dadman, Rawson R. Cowen, Donald J. Wallace, Wilmot Whitney, George A. McKinnon, Charles A. Coolidge, Albert J. Weatherhead, Lawrence Curtis, Ed., Richard C. Curtis, John A. Doherty, Joss C. Harris, Ralph Horwesen, William F. Robinson, Wingate Rollins, Mogelev Taylor and Manager Wells Blanchard

After the election the men will dine with Head Coach H. D. Haughton. Reggie Browne, Leo Leary, Bob Guild and the other coaches.

HAUGHTON VERDICT EXPECTED.

The purpose of this tete-a-tete has caused considerable conjecture at Cambridge and there is a belief that it is a sort of fare-thee-well parting by Coach Haughton.

The noted leader is still of the opinion that Harvard football must worry along without his services next season and he may make public this announcement tonight. However Harvard men are hopeful that the Mr. Chief will keep an open mind until the Winter has passed and then agree to stay in office when spring rolls around

Joseph A. Gilman, who is practically a unanimous choice for All-American tackle, is expected to win the captaincy hands down. He has played all sides of football during his two seasons at Cambridge and appears clearly the most dependable player available for the leadership

HAILS FROM EXETER.

Gilman was a scrappy player in his prep school days at Exeter and did not have a ghost of a chance to make the team away back. He had better luck as a Harvard freshman, playing with Nash, Wallace and Soucy on the 1916 eleven Academy difficulties caused his temporary withdrawal from Cambridge, but he returned this Fall and became a member of the university. Gilman's home is in Honolulu and he is a roommate of Captain Haughton. Like Haughton, the big leader, he has practically no club associations.

Ralph Horwesen, who, like Gilman, is a junior, but has had but one year of football, and Charley Coolidge, substitute end, are outside choices for the captaincy and may receive a scattering vote or two.

The exclusive announcement in yesterday's AMERICAN that Harvard's football schedule for 1916 would embrace ten contests, rather than nine, which have featured each season since Coach Haughton took charge, served to demonstrate that the Crimson authorities are going ahead to book the strongest rivalry possible and put it up to Hon. Percy D. Haughton to again develop an eleven that will be ranked with the best in the country.

Harvard opens next year Monday, September 25, and the first game on the gridiron bill-of-fare is slated for the previous Saturday, the Crimson players tussling with Colby, which has again been selected to start the season at the Stadium. Maine may get a chance at the second game, Dartmouth and Massachusetts Agricultural College ought to draw the third Saturday date.

Tufts, always a big drawing card, might well be taken care for Saturday, October 14. There is considerable talk abroad that Harvard will depart from its custom of recent years and play two games away from home next Fall, the usual affair with Yale and another contest with West Point. If the Cadets are to be visited, no better date could be given them than October 21.

Cornell is down to be entertained October 28 and Al Sharpe's boys, minus the great Charley Barnes, will have their hands full trying to defeat Harvard two seasons running. Virginia would evidently like to take a crack at the Harvard subs November 18, the Saturday before the Yale game but the Southerners, if they are to return to Cambridge, will probably have to take November 4 or not come a all next year.

Word is expected daily at Cambridge that Virginia will wander Stadiumward again

Princeton will play at Cambridge November 11 and Brown is expected to hold forth in its customary place one week later. The Yale game, November 25, will ring down the curtain on Harvard football for 1916

By NAT BUTLER,
Former World's Champion.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, Dec. 10.—At 4.20 this morning, just when most of us nightbirds were resting on our elbows, something suddenly started out on the track. I lifted quickly, rubbed the blink out of my eyes and there before me saw a wonderful, spring under way.

Faster and faster the riders peddled around the saucer with one wail in the fore. I gazed in amasement, for it was none other than Alfred Grenda with his partner had lost a lap during a sprint last night. They rounded the track for ten laps and at that time Madden was a quarter of a lap in front.

Suddenly Eaton relieved him, as pretty a pickup as I have yet seen, and the sprint was on with renewed vigor. Almost from the minute Madden started the track had been in confusion. Sleepy partners were being aroused and sent out to relieve. In just eight minutes' time Eaton and Madden had regained their lap and were on even terms with the ten leading teams, finding Tim Sullivan and Norman Anderson, yet several laps behind.

If Eaton and Madden were possessed of some of the track knowledge the others have I should be inclined to regard them as favorites for the win tomorrow night. However, I fear that they lack sufficient knowledge to ever get in front of some of the more experienced riders.

Joe Fogler surprised us during the night by announcing that he had quit, thus leaving Clarence Carman. Early this morning Bobby Walthour had a bad spill and may be forced out. Should this happen it would allow Jimmy Moran and Walthour to team up.

At the 166th hour the teams had covered 2,108 miles and 6 laps.

HUSSANE TOSSES PERELLI IN A BIG JIFFY

John Perelli, the so-called Italian whirlwind, was a sephyr in his encounter with Yousouf Hussane, the brawny Bulgarian, at the Initial Tuesday wrestling show at the Hippodrome. Tuchey has hit upon popular prices, twenty-five cents to one dollar, and as a result his "house" was quite a big one, and he seems set for a successful season at the Tremont street sport palace.

Hussane disposed of Perelli in straight falls. As soon as the two grapplers faced each other Perelli became obstreperous. He went a-flying at Yousouf and got an eighteen-karat strangle-hold on that worthy. This, of course, started the "fans" hollering, as he it known that John of Italy has ever been noted for his "rough-house" tactics.

After Hussane wiggled out of the struggle, the match proceded according to rules. Hussane finally pinned Perelli's shoulders to the mat; time 18 minutes 31 seconds. The second fall came in a huge hurry, time 20 seconds.

The veteran "Cyclone" Burns showed that he's hang as ever by tossing Tommy Quirk, a Hollander, in straight falls. The flops came in 10 minutes 40 seconds and 21 minutes 10 seconds, respectively. In the preliims Joe willis of Erie, Pa., disposed of John Carlson, of Boston, while Charley Byers, 76 boxer, went to a draw with Johnny Israeli.

In the wall filled auditorium were quite a number of ladies, and they appeared to enjoy the bouts. There will be a show every Thursday night, saates Tuohey.

Powder Point Boys Start Track Work

Powder Point's track squad has started indoor work going. Phillips, Greene and Prescott, three members of last year's strong team, are already in action. Rutenvaert, captain of the 1914 Springfield High track team, is one of the shrewdest-looking candidates Powder Point has arranged a dual meet with Huntington School.

THE RABBITS' COLUMN

Walter J. Maranville
SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Heard from John Hummel, who was "some" had player for Brooklyn. He is undecided as to taking the position of manager of the Oakland Club. John deserves a rest after the idea of being so far away from home.

Yes, I am doing other things, besides grinding out this talk every day. Thought my friends would like to know that I have all my wood in for the Winter, but not all exactly. Sawing wood is a great exercise and "Sec." Hapgood.

Since the season closed I have returned to my trade, that of steam fitter. I tell you it makes a fellow feel great to be at work.

What I cannot understand is the amount of attention paid to the report of a sale or trade in which Captain Johnny Evers is concerned. I am in no better position to know than any outsider, but I feel sure that Johnny will be with the Braves so long as he can play baseball. The "fans" of Boston are strong for him, and I don't know where they make any better second sacker than he is right now.

Johnny didn't have a very good season this year, but he was hurt rapped by illness and worries. I look to see the Trojan come from the start and show that old-time form that makes his name famous from coast to coast.

President Gaffney says that he knows nothing of the Hugh Duffy matter, but will go after him strong if he is placed on the market. Yes, and there will be other bidders, too.

Got a Los Angeles paper and saw that there is quite a baseball colony out there at the present time. Jake Daubert, Jeff Tesreau, Jim Vaughn, Wallie Schang, Heinie Groh and Rob Hobitzell. Heinie Groh and Rob Hobitzell are a few names botoo.

California has sent many a grand player to the major in the past ten years. The Bears of old have their share. There is Bill James, our twirler, and on the Red Sox, Duffy Lewis and Harry Hooper.

Speaking of Bill James, I understand that the big fellow's arm is rounding into shape and that he will be in form when he reports in the Spring. That is welcome news to us all. With Bill right and pitching the kind of ball he did in 1914, there'll be nothing to next year's race but the Braves.

The latest thing on baseball, so far as I can hear, was pulled out in Vernon, Cal., the other day. One of the officials went up in a monoplane to study air currents over the park with a view of determining their effect upon fly balls. Deep stuff!

BRICKLEY CASE REVIEWED BY PERKINS

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Dec. 10.—For the first time President Perkins of Yale [illegible] since the [illegible] case. He has issued an official statement in which he says:

"Unquestionably the legal situation is affected by the [illegible] but in [illegible] the [illegible] and never for pecuniary gain. Bob, with human nature as it is, we have to face the facts in dealing with him. Bob's conduct has been a blow on our record.

"Although it is hinted he may have no eligibility rule whatsoever than to have a rule which is likely to be evaded and to generate a spirit of hypocrisy. The present eligibility rule at Yale seems to me fundamentally sound if it is carried out in its spirit and letter.

"In the first place it bars a man from earning an honest and honorable means of livelihood, and, secondly because it does place him in a position where he sometimes has to play the hypocrite.

"With the present ruling in force at Yale the committee is, of course, justified in declaring the five players in question ineligible. But I hope to see the time come when the faculty can agree on a modification of the eligibility rule that will give one who is entitled as a bonafide [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Crimson Advocates Boxing at Harvard

SCORE BACK BAY MEN'S LIQUOR DIVIDENDS

Anti-Saloon League speakers at noon-day rallies today warned their audiences to take no stock in the stories which, they said, will be issued by some real estate men favoring license, as it reflected the work of the liquor interests upon the property-holders of licensed places.

John F. Cunneen, speaking at the Trimount Tea and Highland Shoe Company, Tremont and Eliot streets, said that a circular was to be sent out from real estate and selling agents to persons who Boston should no license. In reply to his attack Anti-Saloon League officials are preparing a list of owners of some of the licensed cafes. This list, it is said, will show the contribution of several Back Bay people with hotels and other places used largely as drinking resorts not of the most savory reputation.

"The saloon is permitted in the districts where the worst drinking is done. But you do not see many in the Back Bay residential district. The reason is that the capital of the men in the Back Bay is invested in the liquor business located in the South Cove," said Mr. Cunneen.

"The man of the Back Bay does not want the saloon around his house, where his children or women folk will come in contact with it. But he is willing to put his money into it and the real estate in which it is located, because of the big profits in the business. Then he puts a few dollars into asylums to help the children of those whose lives he has rendered homeless, and is classed as one of the first men of the community.

"Because his money is invested in real estate making its profit out of the liquor business, all his friends in this same line of business back him in his protest against the possibility of license being defeated."

Mid-day rallies, a dozen speakers at street rallies evenings, and local speaking is featuring this the biggest campaign ever waged in Boston against the liquor traffic.

The Barton Associates, an organization of young men of the West End, will present resolutions in favor of no-license at a Faneuil Hall rally to be held Monday night. Mark Morgan Smith spoke at the association last night.

At the headquarters of the league today it was stated that several organizations had not only gone on record favoring no-license, but had voted unanimously to work for the cause at the polls next Tuesday.

Tonight Major Smith will speak at Jubilee Hall, Grove Hall.

Owen Johnson—Of Course!

Big as Johnson is—the last two words of that little four-word sentence are as important as the first two.

Ever since the "Varmint"—and "Stover at Yale" and especially since "The Salamander," you who know Cosmopolitan have been expecting to find the author of them writing for it.

Somehow, that confidence of yours seems to influence even the strongest writers. Take Johnson, for instance.

See if you don't say (if you can speak at all) that it's far and away the greatest story he's done.

New York is as full of stories to Johnson as Paris was to Balzac; and he tells them a good deal as Balzac did, without wasting words or gold-plating the steel work.

As one critic put it, Johnson writes "more story to the page than pretty well anybody else that's writing."

Yes,—the "of course" in the heading of this advertisement means a great deal.

It is a phrase that has cost us a good many thousand dollars.

For men who write and draw have come to know that when their work reaches a certain point—

When they have made the kind of success that proves they are not accidents—but the realest kind of real thing—

Then Cosmopolitan must have them.

It is an unwritten pledge to do something for over a million people who buy Cosmopolitan (and price cannot stand in the way).

It is a phrase, on the other hand, that has been the keynote of Cosmopolitan success.

For the certainty (not just the "hope"—of finding the work of the best men writing and illustrating in every number,) is what has made a million people buy.

And a million buyers—means five million readers—which is a great big audience.

So success chases itself around an ever-increasing circle at ever-increasing speed.

Man to man, can you blame us for boasting, just a little?

Would you, yourself, rather speak to the Metropolitan Opera House, packed to the doors, or to nineteen earnest citizens and five hundred and eight empty chairs in the Town Hall?

Today—the biggest fifteen cents' worth of anything in this town is the January

England Finally Decides That American Rights Must Be Respected

THE British Government has completely backed down from the position it has assumed for months past that it can seize American ships and throw on the owners the burden of proof that the ships are American and are on lawful errands. It has ordered the immediate release of the Kankakee, has reversed the order of the Admiralty courts commandeering the Hocking and Genesee and has promised not to molest further the other ships of the American Transatlantic Steamship Company.

So it appears that after sixteen months of the most indefensible aggressions upon our neutral shipping, London has finally decided that it will permit American ships to use the highways of the seas for lawful purposes.

The Hocking and the Genesee were both seized without the shadow of right. They were both commandeered without even the poor formality of a one-sided trial in a British prize-court. The Kankakee was seized while on a neutral voyage between neutral American ports.

It was not until the AMERICAN and the other Hearst papers had roused the nation to a full sense of the indignities being put upon it that even our Government found a voice of protest.

The point we have in mind is not any self-glorification because the Hearst papers have thus forced reluctant action and final justice in this matter.

We think only of the conclusive proof thus furnished that all these months of depredations upon our commerce and indignities toward our neutral rights might have been spared had our Government acted with resolute firmness at the very beginning of England's illegal encroachments upon our rights.

And if the Hearst newspapers, standing almost alone for American rights, could thus compel a reluctant and prejudiced State Department to demand and to obtain justice for these particular American ships and sailors, how easily might our commerce long since have been free from foreign depredations if all American newspapers had been straight-from-the-shoulder Americans and not spiritless hybrids, with more concern for English naval success than for the welfare of American commerce and the honor of the American flag.

We felicitate the British Government upon a return to legal methods of sea warfare and upon its final discernment that American rights upon the oceans cannot be violated constantly without waking the resentment of the American people, if not of the American Department of State.

And in view of the whole history of this epoch-making affair, we are inclined to think that we owe the British Government a handsome acknowledgment on our own account.

Evidently, the Hearst newspapers have more influence in the Court of St. James' than they have in Washington.

Hope

By Jane McLean

A CRIMSON rift that streaks the gray,
A deathless scent that will stray
Athwart the years, the living strain
Of music heard through depths of pain.
A star abreast a stormy sky,
A smile where tears are scarcely dry,
And eyes that Grief has rendered blind,
Reflecting light unquenched and kind.
A word that lingers in the still,
The strength of never conquered will,
The joy that in Faith's own heart lies—
That Life is sweet and nothing dies.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A Hard Luck Story

ALTHOUGH my happy laugh is hushed,
My heart bowed down, my spirits wilted,
Although my very soul is crushed—
It is not just that I was jilted.
I might have still borne up had she
Preferred a butcher or a baker,
But she, who was the world to me,
Has left me for an undertaker.

SHE saw him in his tall silk hat
And straight her love for me grew colder,
He bowed to her—and after that
I had no further power to hold her.
I saw a mercenary gleam
That lit her eyes, once mild and merry,

And knew that she'd begun to dream
Of joy riden to the cemetery.

HE spends with her his leisure hours,
No thought of me, I fancy, frets them;
He gives her rare and lovely flowers—
I always wonder where he gets them!
We never meet; I'd be afraid
That if I saw her I would shake her.
She's done for me, all right, the jade!
Deserted for an undertaker!

How the Earth Was Formed

By Dr. Arthur L. Day

Home Secretary of the National Academy of Sciences.

IT must have been a very turbulent sea, the molten surface of our earth upon which the rocky crust began to form. The first patches of crust were probably shattered over and over again by escaping gases and violent explosions of which our waning volcanic activity is but a feeble echo.

If the earth was first gaseous, and the outer surface gradually condensed to a liquid, its outer portions at least must have been whirled and tumbled about sufficiently, even in a few thousand years (which is a very small interval in the formation of an earth), to mix its various ingredients pretty thoroughly. It has accordingly been hard to see just how it came to separate into individual rocks of such widely different appearance and character. Of course, the number of its ingredients was large.

We have already discovered eighty or more different elementary substances in the earth, and there is an almost endless number of more or less stable compounds of these. The freezing of an earth is therefore different from the freezing of pure water, but the freezing of salt water offers a clew to the explanation of the way in which the earth solidified as we find it. When salt water freezes, the salt is practically all left behind. The ice contains much less salt and the remaining water relatively more salt than before freezing began. Applying this familiar observation to the supposed molten surface of the earth as it began to solidify, we have a suggestion of order and reason in its separation into so many kinds of rocks.

Now, what more promising questions occur to one than these: If the earth was originally fluid, as it appears to have its present state, its component minerals must as some time have been much more thoroughly mixed than now; how did they come to separate in the process of cooling into highly individualized masses and groups as we now find them, and what were the steps in their deposition?

If the whole earth was hot, whence came the marble of which we have so much and which can withstand no heat? What has given us the valuable deposits of iron, of gold, of precious stones? What determines the various crystal forms found in the different minerals, and what is their relation? Some must have formed under pressure, some without pressure, some with the help of water, and some without. Where is the centre, and what the source of energy in our volcanoes? All these questions, and many more, the geophysicist may attempt to answer.

The Geophysical Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution at Washington has entered upon some of the investigations suggested by this long preliminary study of the earth—the physical properties and conditions of formation of the rocks and minerals. The Department of Terrestrial Magnetism of the same institution has undertaken another—the earth's magnetism; the German Geophysical Laboratory at Goettingen a third—the earthquakes—and these will no doubt be followed by others.

In-Shoots

The man with a big fortune is always suspicious of the affections of the fellows who want to marry his daughters.

As a rule a good man can become bad a blamed sight quicker than a bad man can become good.

Flattery is the strong arm with a velvet touch.

No brunette woman can ever be persuaded that blondes are natural.

A thin woman may look good on parade, but most of us would rather hear a fat woman laugh.

Fair Play to Mr. Storrow

He Has Proved Himself a Public-Spirited Man Who Dares to Take the People's Side of the Great Public Questions. Consider His Record

THERE is an old Latin phrase known to lawyers as "Argumentum ad Hominem."

These Latin words describe an ancient practice to which lawyers, usually criminal lawyers, used to resort when the facts were all against them and their client's guilt seemed certain to be proved. These words, in this connection, mean "argue at the man" or "attack the man," attack some man connected with the case who is not the accused, generally the district attorney, or often the police officer, the object, of course, being to confuse and prejudice the jury and divert attention from the accused.

This is the course which Mayor Curley and his candidates for the Council have taken in their attacks upon Mr. Storrow. They have proved nothing. They have not even alleged anything specific against him. They have merely abused him wildly, seeking to raise up against him a nameless prejudice among the people of Boston.

The basis of this abuse of Mr. Storrow apparently is that he is a wealthy man. The fact that men of more than average means are not usually found on the side of the average man in the political controversies, which for ages have divided men into parties of privilege and parties of democracy, is only a manifestation of the weakness of human nature. But men of great wealth HAVE, all through history, arrayed themselves on the side of the ordinary people and against the selfishness of their own class.

It is also a fact, which every student of history knows, that men of wealth have led more noble struggles for liberty and equality than were ever led by demagogues, for wealthy men have led many such a struggle and DEMAGOGUES NEVER.

Washington and Jefferson were wealthy men in their day. So were Lafayette and Gouverneur Morris. John Bright and Richard Cobden were rich men of England in their day. So was Gladstone. In the ancient world the Gracchi brothers both gave their lives in the struggle to give the poor Romans their rights against the social order to which the Gracchii themselves belonged.

Mr. Storrow is not seeking martyrdom, but he has demonstrated during the last six years that he is a man with the courage to do what is right, whether it pleases his business associates or not. The citizens of Boston and Massachusetts cannot afford to condemn a man of Mr. Storrow's business ability and public achievements and public spirit without knowing something about his public record, about the things which he has done in behalf of the public interests, as he understood them.

Let it be remembered that Mr. Storrow, as president of the Chamber of Commerce, wrote the first report which condemned the management of the New Haven Railroad as hostile to the interests of New England. Let it also be remembered that this report was made before the Interstate Commerce Commission issued its findings against the road and while State Street and the business world of New England generally were under the thrall of that great railroad monopoly.

The citizens of Boston remember the struggle which was made by the people of Massachusetts, and particularly by this newspaper, to bring the Grand Trunk Railroad to this State in order to give us railroad competition and break up the baleful railroad monopoly which the New Haven had established by acquiring the Boston & Maine. Now what was Mr. Storrow's attitude in that struggle? Was it the attitude of most of State Street, seeking the favor of the New Haven and of the Wall Street managers of the New Haven? No! Mr. Storrow headed a delegation as president of the Merchants' Association which went to Montreal for the purpose of inducing the Grand Trunk Railroad to come to Boston in the teeth of the New Haven, which was fighting bitterly to prevent the Grand Trunk from making an entry into this port. Those New Haven directors are now on trial in New York for criminal conspiracy in their successful attempt to prevent the Grand Trunk from coming here.

The citizens will recall the great fight which was made to prevent Boston from entering into the electric light contract under Mayor Hibbard's administration, when hundreds of thousands of dollars were lost by the city and passed over to the Electric Light Company under that contract. Who was it that led this fight? Have we forgotten that it was James J. Storrow?

Have we forgotten Mr. Storrow's attitude as member of the Board of Arbitration which awarded the street railway men of Boston higher wages?

Acts speak louder than words.

We wish to place Mr. Storrow's ACTS against Mayor Curley's WORDS.

Mr. Storrow is not a candidate for Mayor. He could have been a candidate for Mayor two years ago if he had desired to be. Mr. Storrow is just setting able and successful business men an example in public spirit. He is taking the wild abuse of reckless politicians for the sake of serving in a little office.

In England and Germany men like Mr. Storrow have gone into the municipal service and have helped the cities to acquire and operate their own street railways, gas and electric light companies and other public utilities. We must encourage such men to take an interest in our public affairs whenever BY THEIR RECORDS they show that they want to serve US and not themselves. This is what Mr. Storrow's record shows, as does that of Mr. Kenny, that of Mr. Attridge and that of Mr. Collins.

Amidst all this abuse and slander let Mr. Storrow remember that one of the poet's attributes of greatness is "To bear to hear the truth you've spoken twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools."
